UNLESS Gov. Hardman interferes, Georgia will send a woman to the electric chair. The Governor feels that the woman is guilty, basing his opinion partly on his study of phrenology.

The woman may be guilty of murder. But should Georgia be guilty of killing a woman?

That is the important question. Phrenology and its bumps are often deceptive.

GERMANY is building, secretly, an airplane such as Henry Ford described, and planned to build, more than a year ago.

The German plane, 150 feet wide, carries 12 high-power engines and has sleeping quarters for 33 people.

The 12 motors are of British construction, "Jupiter motors," and this first real "giant plane," called "Dornier 10," will run between Germany and South America, stopping at the Azores, attaining a speed of 150 miles an hour, and carrying fuel for a 2,500-mile flight. A real flying machine.

HIGH finance does not lack courage, putting the interest rate on money to 9 per cent yesterday.

The legal limit even for pawnbrokers is 12 per cent, and they have to take care of the old overcoat and keep the moths out of it after making the loan.

These usurious profits are due primarily to action taken by the Federal Reserve. Bankers follow suit to make all they can for stockholders.

And Wall street banks charge on regular business loans, having nothing to do with stock speculation, a rate that is plain usury and against the law.

ALL this ought to interest President Coolidge, his Federal Reserve Board being responsible for a condition that makes this country ridiculous in the eyes of European countries that manage finances honestly.

WHEN Gov. Smith gets back from the corn belt, he ought to investigate the Wall Street usury wave.

He is in no way responsible for it and has no control of Federal Reserve or National banks. But usury violates the law of New York state, and he, as Governor, might like to know just how and why his Republican friends are transforming banks into pawn shops.

INTERESTING news for farmers and all that eat comes from the Santa Fe Railroad, via G. W. Reed.

A caterpillar tractor on the California Packing Corporation ranch at San Leandro, Cal., worked for 408 hours without stopping, beating the world's nonstop tractor record by 168 hours.

In less than 20 days the big tractor, not even stopping as drivers were changed, ploughed 1,260 acres of land, traveling back and forth 3,000 miles.

No weary animals exhausted, no tired farmer walking over heavy ground. Skilled mechanics, working eight hours a day, three to a shift of 24 hours, the work done by machine.

There you have the future of farming, and a "farm problem" solution that you will not find in politicians' promises.

NOT satisfied with exiling Trotzky to far-away Turkestan, the Bolshevist government is said by yesterday's London Daily Mail to have organized various attempts on his life.

To organize a great revolution, throwing out the czars, becoming head of the huge Russian army, and then find yourself an exile, in danger of murder, must discourage Communist ardor.

Sharpshooters, evidently not very sharp, tried in vain to shoot Trotzky. Then his house was blockaded and his family unable to get food. Trotzky, well read and philosophical, can find comfort in his recollection of what happened in the French revolution to Danton, Robespierre, Marat and a host of other leaders.

THE Irish Free State issues currency notes, and elderly Irishmen that used to parade for Irish Home Rule, long ago, will be amazed to learn that some of these Irish notes are orange colored.

The £1 note is green, the 10 shilling note orange, and the £5 note shows a picture supposed to represent Ireland. It is in reality the picture of an American woman, wife of an Irish artist, Sir John Lavery. He designed the note and gallantly immortalized his wife.

The words on the banknotes are half English, half Gaelic.

THOMAS F. McGregor, Philadelphia scientist, shows that peaches, fresh picked, put into a can from which air was expelled and nitrogen substituted, were perfectly fresh at the end of six weeks. It is believed that nitrogen will preserve the freshness of all foods and prevent decay indefinitely.

That is important news to packers and might develop ways of utilizing inexhaustible supplies of nitrogen in the air above us.

Turn the Rascals Out!

MR. GARDNER'S OPPORTUNITY

[AN EDITORIAL]

THE people of Pittsburgh care little about the "political war" that has started between unimportant office holders. They do care a great deal about the specific charge of graft laid against the city administration by Alderman John J. Verona—$7,500 a week slot machine graft, $5,000 a week graft from one Third avenue gambling joint, and the rest of it.

Verona, himself, is no lily-white reformer, but boss of the Hill, home of privileged vice. He has fallen out with Mayor Kline, and apparently the people are learning some of the truth, as the result.

The city administration is responsible for the fact that several districts of Pittsburgh are rotten with vice. PROTECTED VICE MEANS GRAFT. Mayor Kline, himself, is, in the last analysis, responsible.

The people cannot look for any real investigation from the city authorities. The heads of the police department have showed a disinclination to interfere with the widespread slot machine robbery; from Director Clark down the line they are a halting, timorous lot.

To one man the people look for honest, earnest action. That man is the district attorney, Samuel H. Cardner.

If Mr. Gardner will seize this opportunity to get the facts of protected vice and graft in Pittsburgh—there is plenty to be had—he will be the biggest figure in Western Pennsylvania.

It will require courage of a high order and a more energetic campaign than Mr. Gardner has shown himself ready to start in the past. But unusual opportunities sometimes develop unusual men.

Philadelphia is making an inspiring attempt to cast off the fetters of police graft and protected vice. Philadelphia knows it has engaged in a battle to the death to shake off the underworld control of the city. A fighting district attorney is doing magnificent work there.

This is Mr. Gardner's great chance to help the people of Pittsburgh TURN THE RASCALS OUT!

POLICE DEMOLISH 28 SLOT MACHINES

Twenty-eight slot machines were reduced to junk in the basement of Central Police Station today, after Magistrate John W. Orie had imposed fines on 14 men who had been arrested charged with maintaining gambling devices.

The machines were confiscated in raids conducted by Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd several days ago. The owners were arrested yesterday on warrants issued by Magistrate Orie.

In the county's war on slot machines, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner has asked that the racketeers be held for court and will seek prison sentences for them.

FOURTEEN FINED

The 14 keepers of gambling devices arraigned in Central station today were assessed fines ranging from $25 to $50. Those fined the larger amount are Milton Nuylick, 40, of 3519 Butler street; William Pulbaum, 32, of 1219 Carson street; Stanley Cyba, 36, of 1705 Carson street; Sam Johnson, 30, of 1315 Carson street; Harry Schiller, 32, of 216 Larimer avenue; Mike Kuphkowski, 40, of 3603 Butler street; Peter Coyne, 43, of 4731 Second avenue; A. M. Deitz, 38, of 11 West General Robinson street; W. S. Turner, 67, of 900 James street; E. A. Quinn, 35, of 106 East Ohio street, and Mike Verlikay, 41, of 3049 Preble avenue. Three fined $25 each are: Byron Kruhle, 40, of 2613 Brownsville avenue; Jack Taunus, 50, of 629 Brownsville avenue, and Frank Cardanarome, 41, of 625 Brownsville road.

The district attorney has asked the co-operation of alderman and justices of the peace in holding the men for court.

TEN HELD FOR COURT

This plan bore fruit last night when 10 men charged with having machines, in McKeesport, were held for court by Alderman J. J. Lundie, of McKeesport. County Detective James J. Reddington was the prosecutor. Five cases from Homestead will be heard by Alderman George J. Anderson this afternoon, and 12 others will be arraigned before Alderman A. C. Marcus, of McKeesport tonight.

In the past, District Attorney Gardner said, the owners of the machine courted a fine, but he thinks a workhouse sentence will be effective in banning gambling devices.

"We are ridding the county of slot machines and punch boards, and we will keep it clean," Gardner said.

On the North Side, where the police confiscated nine machines recently, the devices were destroyed. The police were acting under orders issued some time ago by Safety Director James M. Clark.

HURRICANE BLOCKS YORK (PA.) FUNERAL

YORK, PA., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The hurricane which swept the east coast of Florida has necessitated the postponement of a funeral here. After all arrangements had been made to hold services for Mrs. Frances H. Paxton, who died at Rockledge, Fla., on Monday, the body failed to arrive due to the disruption of train movements in the storm area of Florida. Efforts to locate the body have thus far proved unsuccessful.

COOK EXPERT DENOUNCES STARVATION DIET FADS

Starvation diets and fad diets were scorned as a means of weight reduction by Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree, expert in home economics, in a lecture that was the highlight in yesterday's session of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Free Cooking School in Soldiers' Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Crabtree's lecture topic was "Curves or Straight Lines" and she urged: "Watch the scales and reduce your ails."

The school's second day session attracted another large audience of women, who displayed enthusiasm and interest in the lecture and in the numerous recipes and pertinent cooking hints that also were presented by Mrs. Crabtree. The session was climaxed with the awarding of additional gifts.

At this afternoon's session, beginning at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Crabtree will give a budget lecture under the title, "Juggling the Income." There will be another session at 8 o'clock tonight. Major prizes to be awarded today include a General Electric refrigerator, a Tappan gas range, Spear's Hoosier kitchen cabinet, a set of Wearever kitchen utensils and a Lady Dover electric iron and a Dover percolator.

Near the close of the day's meeting the school paused long enough to honor a veteran of the Civil

ASK SMITH HERE

GOVERNOR MAY COME; WALKER CERTAIN

An effort is being made to persuade Gov. Alfred E. Smith to make one of his campaign addresses in Pittsburgh, David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, stated today.

"Mayor Walker, of New York, will speak here, although the date has not been definitely set," Lawrence stated. "We hope to have Gov. Smith here before the campaign is over."

John Raskob, national chairman, was reported to have said in New York recently that Gov. Smith may make two speeches in Pennsylvania, one here and the other in Philadelphia.

Milwaukee Dime Bus Success

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Milwaukee has hills. Milwaukee has luxurious busses. Every bus in Milwaukee is a single decker. Each of these was mentioned by A. W. Robertson, president of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, as a reason for the 25-cent bus fare. But the Wisconsin Motor Bus Company charges only 10 cents.

The hills on the routes of the bus line in Milwaukee are not so long as those on Bigelow boulevard and the Boulevard of the Allies, but they are quite as steep. The principal business thoroughfare of Milwaukee, over which most of the bus lines operate, is a succession of hills which offer as serious an operating problem as is found in Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee busses are of a different type, but they are as comfortable as the Twin Coaches in operation here. They are equipped with pneumatic tires and the service equals Pittsburgh's in every way. Several years ago double deck busses were used but they have since been discontinued.

CINCINNATI, TOO

Cincinnati is another hilly city, but there, too, a ride of five to eight miles can be had for 10 cents. Cincinnati busses hauled 6,816,139 passengers last year at this low rate of fare. The luxurious 25-cent bus service, mentioned by Mr. Robertson in his defense of the Pittsburgh

WIDE PARTY DEFECTION SHOWN BY STATE POLL

The extraordinary state of party affiliations in Pennsylvania this presidential year, with widespread defections from the Republican and Democratic parties, is emphasized by the accumulation of returns in the straw vote canvass of the state by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Republican party is suffering from this condition to a greater extent, because of its traditional numerical strength. Democrats are transferring their allegiance to the Republican party in much smaller numbers, but in an equal proportion of voting power.

What the straw vote indicates—Page 6.
Returns by states—Page 21.

This is particularly true in the rural counties of the state, in many of which there has been a considerable Democratic element in the past. Republican defections are mainly in the large cities and in urban areas.

A volume of ballots continues to be filed from rural counties and the returns for the day further in-

Cloudy and cooler, probably light showers, cooler tonight; Saturday generally fair and cooler.

JAWORSKI TREASURE HUNT ON

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 21.—Following Paul Jaworski's confession that the Joe Weckoski farm in Fallowfield township, near here, was the headquarters for the "Flathead Gang," a veritable host of treasure-hunters, armed with picks and shovels, were descending on the farm this morning.

Following the Coverdale payroll holdup last spring, Allegheny county detectives dug up over $30,000 in cash in the garden outside the house.

Weckoski at the time declared that there was more money buried around the farm, but he did not know where.

With scarcely more than one-fourth of the "Flathead Gang's" loot found, treasure-hunters, by the score, were again digging in the pasture field and orchards which abound at the Weckoski home. Mrs. Joe Weckoski still lives there with her four babies.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—Paul Jaworski yesterday admitted that he once stole the automobile of Andrew W. Mellon.

Questioned by Burgess S. L. Woodward and Police Chief Jack Thomas, of Charleroi, Jaworski admitted the $48,000 Eldora street car holdup, July 15, 1921, which occurred on a Charleroi car. He told of having stolen more than a score of high-powered cars in Pittsburgh and once took a machine bearing license No. 23. When he discovered it belonged to the Secretary of the Treasury, he abandoned it for another.

DENIES HOPE MURDER

Jaworski denied the murder of William Hope in the Charleroi Eagles Club on February 12, 1923.

Jaworski's death is a matter of hours. His entire side is paralyzed and the spinal affliction may result in death at most any time.

The bandit declared that he and members of his gang have maintained headquarters at the Joe Weckoski farm, in Fallowfield township, near Charleroi, for eight years.

SEIZES STRIP RUM

Backing up his defiance to Mayor Charles H. Kline and the city administration, which he charges is "protecting" booze joints and gambling dens, John J. Verona, rebellious police magistrate, alderman and Hill "boss," today sent his constables on a raiding expedition in the Strip and downtown districts.

Three places were visited by Verona's constables while the alderman himself conducted hearings in three other raids made last Saturday.

Out of the three places visited today, liquor was found in only one. The other two, the constables report, were "running quietly," evidently having been "tipped off."

ALE, LIQUOR SEIZED

Today's raids were made in the Penn avenue district. A quantity of beer, ale and liquor was seized by Constable Harry Fink and a squad which crashed a club at 1011 Liberty avenue. The steward, Abe Roth, was taken into custody.

At two other places in Penn avenue, no liquor was found, but evidence of gambling was uncovered, according to the raiders.

Those held for court included Dennis O'Donnell, of 644 Penn avenue, and Harry Zamsky, of 636 Penn avenue. Constables testified to raiding both establishments Saturday evening and confiscating quantities of beer and liquor. P. M. Soldan, who said he was a member of O'Donnell's club, was discharged.

Verona's war on vice in Police Inspector James M. Hoey's district is the culmination of a political upheaval of considerable purport. Police were used last week to balk the raiders, but the Verona men ex-

Anti-Klan Evidence Taken

Prosecuting attorneys of the state of Indiana were in Pittsburgh today taking depositions to use in their fight to oust the Ku Klux Klan from that state.

Attorney General Arthur I. Gilliom, of Indiana, and Attorney Fred C. Gause, associate counsel, drew from Harry E. A. MacNeil, of Indiana, Pa., a story of klan persecution of Jews, Catholics and Negroes and a report on klan investigation of jurors who sat at trials arising from the Carnegie riots. A witness, whose identity was shielded, told of having been tarred and feathered on a woman's complaint.

The mystery witness testified that, in view of his wife and mother at their home in Burgettstown in August, 1926, he was dragged to nearby woods and, beaten, told to "get out of town."

Joseph R. Shoemaker, who testified that he was secretary-treasurer of several organizations under the klan leader, Sam B. Rich, told of the klan's attempts to gain a political supremacy in Pennsylvania.

Kline Men Get $13,000 Graft Weekly—Verona

SOON after his tempestuous conference with Mayor Charles H. Kline yesterday afternoon, John J. Verona, defiant police magistrate, alderman and ward leader, made the following direct charges against the Kline administration:

Booze joints and gambling dens are flourishing on the Hill under police protection.

Slot machines are placed with the sanction of the administration.

Kline's administration leaders collected $7,500 a week graft from Al Forney's slot machines.

They collected $5,000 a week from Jakey Klein.

Jimmy Smith paid $500 a week for protection for many months.

Every official in the city's administration knows what is going on, and dives are being protected by the highest officials of the city.

SMITH DENOUNCES RELIGION IN POLITICS

NO WORRY

If you're teachers, girls, you have steady incomes, long summer vacations and pensions—when you're old. There's little glitter in Young America at times, but there's no worry about "bread and butter."

STEADY WORK

And if you're shopgirls, your lots are what you choose to make them. There are chances for advancement, interesting people to meet, and there isn't always the ghost of unemployment "next month" to be stalked.

BEWARE!

If you haven't adequate means to support yourself independently of your weekly salary, don't go near the stage, warns Mary Boland, actress, who tells of the hunger and despair, long walks to theaters when there wasn't carfare and the difficult ladder she had to climb to stage fame. Stay away!

SATISFACTION

There is satisfaction in nursing, you who are nurses probably know. And for the most part, incomes are ample, points out Miss Boland. And there's an independence that follows that one doesn't have on the stage.

CAREER

Take the stenographer: She's on the first round of a business career and the distance she goes depends entirely upon herself. She, too, is assured of a steady, comfortable income. Forget the stage!

SMITH RAPS RELIGION IN POLITICS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 21.—The grisly spectre of religion in politics, which has been lurking in the shadows of Al Smith's fight for the presidency ever since the historic melee at Madison Square Garden, was out in the open today.

It was literally kicked there last night by Gov. Smith himself in a dramatic speech that for sheer political audacity and blunt speaking probably has no parallel in American political history.

POLITICAL INNOVATION

Here in a state that for years was dominated by the Klan, and where the Klan still wields considerable influence, the Democratic nominee took off his gloves and grappled with the religious issue bare-handed. He named names in the process.

He spoke to tens of thousands of Oklahomans and Texans, inside and outside the column, and through the nation-wide radio hookup his speech went into probably millions of American homes.

"I have been told," said the governor bluntly, "that politically it might be expedient for me to remain silent on this subject, but so far as I am concerned, no political expediency will keep me from speaking out in an endeavor to destroy these evil attacks.

"There is abundant reason for believing that Republicans high in the councils of the party have countenanced a large part of this form of attack, if they have not actually promoted it.

CITES WILLEBRANDT

"Giving them the benefit of all reasonable doubt, they at least remain silent on the exhibition that Mrs. Willebrandt made of herself before the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, when she said:

"'There are thousands of pastors here. You have in your church more than 600,000 members of the Methodist church in Ohio alone. That is enough to swing the election. The 600,000 have friends in other states. Write to them.'

"There is separation of church and state for you. Mrs. Willebrandt holds a place of prominence in Washington. She is an assistant attorney general of the United States. By silence after such a speech the only inference one can draw is that the administration approves such political tactics. Mrs. Willebrandt is not an irresponsible person. She was chairman of the committee on credentials of the Republican national convention."

This was only one of the incidents stressed by the Governor in his bitter arraignment of his detractors. All of it came after he had defended his record of a quarter of a century in public office. He said the Republicans had gone over his public service record with a microscope and not finding anything derogatory had resorted to "scurrilous, un-American propaganda" to defeat him.

He waved aloft a circular, unsigned, but purporting to be "instructions" from the Catholic church to its members to vote for him because of his Catholicism. He denounced it as "stupid forgery."

"I here emphatically state," he declared, "that I do not wish any member of my faith to vote for me on any religious grounds. I want them to vote for me only when in their hearts and consciences they are convinced that the best interests of the country will be served by my election.

"And by the same token I say that any person who votes against me simply because of my religion is not, to my way of thinking, a good citizen."

FIRE ALARMS FALSE, POLICE HUNT "JOKER"

Center avenue police last night doubled their efforts to apprehend the person responsible for the sounding of a false alarm from fire box 1591, Bedford avenue and Seal street. False alarms have been sounded from it twice within the last two nights.

Pgh. Flier Leads Air Racers

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A foggy dawn today found the field of aviators in the Class B nonstop races of the Los Angeles-Cincinnati air derby reduced to eight as their pilots awaited the starter's gun which will send them roaring away to the East.

Six of the ships, entered in Class B, were to fly to El Paso today, while the two nonstop entrants can take off at any time today or tomorrow on the unbroken flight to Cincinnati.

Meanwhile but seven of the 17 first division starters had reached El Paso, first scheduled overnight stop. Two spent the night at Tucson, Ariz., eight starters were unreported.

Eugene Detmar, Tarrytown, N. Y., crashed in landing at El Paso. He was uninjured, but his plane was badly damaged, eliminating him.

Robert A. Dake, of Pittsburgh, flying an American Moth, was first to Reach El Paso, followed by W. H. Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa. The others who reached there were George Hopkins, Detroit; Theodore W. Kenyon, Boston; S. L. Wittman, Byron, Wis., and H. S. Meyers, S. H. Turner and D. A. Kundle.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Theodore Kenyon, of Boston, in a Challenger plane, led the class A group in the Los Angeles to Cincinnati air derby out of El Paso this morning on the hop to Fort Worth.

A stiff wind was sweeping the field as Kenyon got away and the takeoff was made under difficulties.

The fliers will resume the journey from Fort Worth to Pine Bluff, Ark., this afternoon.

$20,000 DRUG TRIP LEADS TO ATLANTA

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Three years in Atlanta prison was the sentence imposed on Tony Causamano, 24, of New York, drug peddler arrested here while transporting narcotics valued at $20,000 from New York to Detroit. He was found guilty by a Federal jury and immediately sentenced by Judge Frederic P. Schoonmaker.

Charlie's Not King of Hearts, Mabel, Diamond Queen, Insists

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.

MABEL BOLL, the 14-carat blonde, today booted into the grand canyon of untruths these two rumors:

1—That her heart is all aflutter for somebody or other.

2—That Charlie Levine's wife objects to her flying around with Charlie.

"I'm in love only with aviation," Mabel insisted. "Furthermore, Mrs. Levine and I are best of friends. Furthermore, I'm going to make a spectacular flight—maybe from New York to Buenos Aires."

Mabel has planned more flights than any other blonde in the records.

perienced no difficulty in making their raids today.

Several police officials and members of the city detective homicide squad are under bond for hearings before Verona. These hearings have been scheduled for Monday night. Charges of aggravated assault and battery have been made against Police Inspector James M. Hoey and Capt. John Schnurr. Hoey is also charged with surety of the peace.

SLUGGING CHARGED

Hoey is alleged to have slugged Oliver Lewis, Negro, when he approached the inspector in Center Avenue Police Station. Schnurr is alleged to have attacked Jack Burke, a local prize fighter and so-called racketeer, during an altercation in the street.

David Corbett, Frank Nowicki, M. Kennelly, Robert Burke and William Reese, members of the homicide squad, are charged with interfering with officers in connection with Hoey's evasion of arrest by locking himself in a cell in Center Avenue Police Station last Saturday night. After outwitting the constables from Verona's office, Hoey succeeded in getting word of his predicament to city detectives and the squad was sent to arrest the constables on disorderly conduct charges. While the constables were in custody, Hoey let himself out of his cell and eluded arrest for three days.

BREAK CAUSES UPROAR

Verona's open break with the Kline administration, following a conference with the Mayor, fell like a bombshell in political circles. His accusations of graft and corruption caused no end of consternation, because Verona never was considered a man who would talk.

He charged Mayor Kline and every other city official from the lowest patrolman to the highest executive with knowing what is going on and protecting booze joints and gambling dives.

The defiant Hill boss charged that the Kline administration leaders protected Albert Forney's slot machines in the Hill and collected $7,500 rake-off every week.

He accused the administration leaders of getting $5,000 a week from Jakey Klein for the privilege of running a gambling joint in Third avenue.

He said Jimmy Smith paid $500 a week for protection on a gambling and booze joint in Sixth avenue.

He charged police used thug tactics on people in disfavor with the administration and told of several specific instances when innocent men have been slugged by police.

CONGRESSMAN TO TALK AT SMITH MEETING

Congressman George H. Combs, of Missouri; Attorney Herman L. Hegner, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Agatha Tiernan, Avalon, will speak tonight at a meeting in the headquarters of the Al Smith Club, 137 Seventh avenue.

The standing today in the Pennsylvania canvass, conducted in connection with the nation-wide poll by the Hearst papers, is as follows: Hoover 21,729, including 15,832 men and 5,897 women; Smith 15,268, including 10,623 men and 4,645 women.

Of the electors heard from, those who voted in 1924 cast their ballots as follows: Coolidge 26,150, including 18,897 men and 7,253 women; Davis 3,434, including 2,732 men and 702 women; La Follette 2,417.

10-CENT BUS SERVICE IN MILWAUKEE

Motor Coach Company, hauled only 3,868 passengers.

A week ago, when Mr. Robertson attempted to justify the 25-cent bus fare to newspaper men, he stressed the fact that the bus lines in New York are able to change their load several times during each trip. That is, passengers are constantly getting on and off so that one seat may be sold several times on each run.

Investigation has shown that New York is the only city in which such a situation exists, although it is far from being the only city with a 10-cent bus fare.

NEW YORK UNIQUE

In Chicago, Detroit and Milwaukee practically all of the passengers ride the entire distance from an outlying section to the business center of the city. New York with its widely separated shopping, theater and business districts is the only locality where bus lines enjoy the advantage of frequently changing their load.

Another angle of the depreciation of equipment came to light in Chicago. The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company claims that its equipment will be worn out after four years of use. It figures depreciation and profits accordingly.

In 1925 $1,500,000 of equipment trust certificates were sold on the busses operated by the Chicago Motor Coach Company. These matured serially over a period of five years. It is unlikely that practical investment bankers would underwrite five-year bonds on busses which would be worthless in four years.

LEAVES $41,000 TO FAMILY

William W. Titzel, of Glenshaw, leaves a $41,000 estate to two brothers and two sisters, in his will, probated today. He bequeathes $2,000 outright to Elmina M. Titzel and the remainder equally to her, Rebecca J. Sander, James C. Titzel and Louis B. Titzel.

Robert T. Townsend, of Sewickley, president of the Townsend Company, rivet manufacturers, leaves $20,000 reality and estimated personal property in trust to his wife, Eva V. Townsend. At her death, the estate goes to his children, Robert T., Jr., and Margaret E. Townsend.

The will of Louise C. Sanereisen, Fifth ward, devises an estate valued at $12,000 to her three daughters, Elizabeth K. Wunderlich, Anna M. Sanereisen and Caroline A. Witte.

45 ITALIAN LODGES RESENT VERONA ATTACK

A resolution appealing to Mayor Charles H. Kline "to place no faith in those malignant and sinister influences attempting to attack the character" of Magistrate John J. Verona was passed at a meeting of representatives of 45 Italian lodges, clubs and organizations last night in Bryn Mawr auditorium.

The resolution stated those present desire "to go on record as resenting the activities of certain concealed, disrupting forces which are seeking to discredit the honesty, integrity and political standing of Magistrate John J. Verona, who has at all times been a faithful member of the Mayor's cabinet and his staunchest supporter."

SUIT

In Detroit, a father is suing a hospital for $200,000 for confusion five years ago that lost him his new-born baby, given to someone else by mistake.

SYSTEM

But not in Pittsburgh! There's system at Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital for keeping Young Mr. Jones properly identified from Young Mr. Smith—or Miss!

PRINTED

One step in this "Bertillon" system is foot-printing. It's a positive record, Nurses Rouch and Jacobs demonstrate. One copy is filed, another given to the mother.

BRACELET

And again, the baby is given a bracelet, usually his first. In it is woven in beads his name, his very own name. So the babies are happy and the mothers unworried.

CUSTOMS TROUBLE

Today Ganna Walska, singer, seeks to get back her clothes and jewels from customs men.

NO DIVORCE

Husband Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, won't be divorced, she says. The jewels and clothes are worth about $2,000,000. Is Ganna a resident of the United States?

YES! NO!

She isn't a resident, she says; no tax! She is, customs men say; hold jewels.

MURIEL McCORMICK

If there is a divorce, Muriel McCormick will just lose another "mother."

WARM WELCOME

But Muriel and Harold, Jr., won't see their father divorced. He welcomed Ganna warmly.

IN ROLE

This is Ganna in role. When she gets the jewels, she'll rest in Chicago then stay in New York, opening her great Park avenue home.

HOOVER PLEASED WITH ELECTION OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A month and a half before the voters decide whether he is to be the next president of the United States, Herbert Hoover is well satisfied with the political outlook and the functioning of the vast machine he has built up to carry the Republican message to the country.

So the candidathe is able to free his mind from some of the matters which have beset him since the convention at Kansas City placed the mantle of nomination upon his shoulders and can begin the preparation of his remaining three addresses in the East and South with a greater mental ease than has been the case in the past.

FRICTION REMOVED

Friction in the Republican organization has been largely removed—and some friction is ever present in a machine made up of such a vast body of human cogs—and the units are now plugging away right down into the individual voting precincts.

James F. Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, who has been connected with the G. O. P. campaigns for more than a quarter of a century, declares the party machinery is going better than at any time within his recollection. The decentralization scheme, he added, is working out in fine shape.

Aside from the extensive use of the radio and the reams of publicity in the newspapers, which are printing more matter about this campaign than about any that has gone before, 32,000,000 pieces of literature are being sent out to voters under the general direction of Herbert Guntherson, executive secretary of the committee. This compares with 16,000,00 pieces in the 1924 campaign.

WILL INVADE SOUTH

Hoover now is giving attention to his next address, to be delivered at Elizabethton, Tenn., on October 6, and to the itinerary to be arranged for his invasion of the South.

Like that for Northern New Jersey early this week it will be of the whirlwind variety, taking in one or more towns besides Elizabethton and including perhaps one or two impromptu speakings. Plans for his trip to New York and Boston next month also are in the making, and they, too, also will be swiftly moving affairs. Leaving 10 days before election time, the Republican candidate will make several addresses on his journey westward to his Pacific Coast home to vote, and his schedule will be so arranged that as many people as possible can see and hear.

While he was in the West for the delivery of his acceptance address upwards of a million persons were able to see him and as many more have had opportunity in New Jersey.

Pgh. Labor Indorses Hoover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Five leaders in trades unions of Pittsburgh have expressed whole-hearted approval of the statements made by Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for the presidency, in his labor speech at Newark Monday night, according to a statement from Republican national headquarters today.

Henry O'Neill, Pittsburgh's representative for John Mitchell from 1899 to 1908, while Mr. Mitchell was president of the United Mine Workers of America, said that after hearing Mr. Hoover's speech "I feel that I can be for him, not only in this election, but thereafter and always."

Louis McGrew, editor of the Labor World, of Pittsburgh, said:

"The labor speech of Herbert Hoover, the great builder of humanity, will go down in history with the utterances of Lincoln and Roosevelt in behalf of the common people. The labor philosophy contained in Mr. Hoover's declarations is food for serious reflection for every man who works for wages."

John B. Cooper, District Council No. 1, Painters and Decorators, made this statement:

"Mr. Hoover's speech to labor is great. It should swing every trade unionist in the country into line for the Republican ticket."

From John Kennie, Typographical Union No. 7:

"Mr. Hoover's speech on behalf of labor is a gem of clearness. It shows the great work he has been doing for labor.

Verna Stepp, member of the Pittsburgh Pressmans and Assistants' Union No. 64, declared:

"The women and girls who work in industry can all congratulate Mr. Hoover on his labor speech in which he recognizes the rights of the working women. It is a wonderful revelation in our behalf. His work is truly humanitarian."

IA. TILLERS OPPOSE HOOVER

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The convention of the Iowa Farmers' Union listened yesterday while Senator Brookhart, Republican, praised Herbert Hoover as a friend of the farmer, "who opposed the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill," and then adopted a resolution opposing his election. The vote on the resolution was followed by the singing of "The Sidewalks of New York."

Senator Brookhart told the union that three farm leaders—George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., chairman of the "Committee of 22," a farm organization; Frank W. Murphy, of Minnesota, and William Hirth, of Missouri, chairman of the corn belt federation of farm organizations—had "double-crossed" the farmers by swinging their support to Gov. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Murphy, who was present, said he did not see why he was included in the attack unless it was because of his speeches recently favoring the McNary-Haugen bill.

In a reply to Brookhart's address, Milo Reno, the Farmers' Union president, said he considered Hoover "the most relentless enemy of the farmer."

Murphy also took the floor and was given an ovation when he asked his hearers to stand with him for continuance of the fight for the McNary-Haugen bill.

The resolution adopted indorsed the recent resolution of the corn belt committee resenting "the high-handed and insulting manner in which the national Republican convention at Kansas City turned a deaf ear to the pleas for justice for agriculture."

Weather Conditions.

High barometric pressure is the controlling influence over the weather over most of the country this morning, and, as a result, the skies are clear over much the greater portion. Also, the high pressure has caused a decided drop in temperature over the Rocky Mountain states and the Plains states, and light frost to freezing temperatures occurred over the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming. In Wyoming the temperatures are freezing or below over the entire state.

A low pressure area is centered north of the Great Lakes, and a trough formation extends southward over the lakes and the Mississippi River to the Gulf. This disturbance is producing considerable cloudiness in the Lake region and the Upper Mississippi valley, and light rains at scattered places.

River Conditions.

The rains over the basins produced substantial rises in some of the tributaries of the rivers, especially the headwaters of the Monongahela, but little change in the main rivers. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 7.6 feet. The dams are up.

VERONA KEEPS JOB AS KLINE EVADES REPLY

John J. Verona, Third Ward boss, will lose his job as police magistrate within a few days, according to close friends of Mayor Charles H. Kline. The Mayor himself refused to discuss that phase of one of the most sensational episodes in the city's political history.

"Have you fired Verona?" he was asked when he reached his office today.

"Not yet," he said.

"Do you intend to fire him?"

"Don't ask me that question today."

"Have you anything to say in reply to Verona's statement?"

"Not a word," said the Mayor emphatically. "Verona is doing the talking now and he claims to know a lot more than I know."

"Then you have nothing to say about his statements?"

"Not now. There is one thing I will say, and that is in regard to the slot machines there has been so much talk about the last few days. I have issued orders to search every place such a machine possibly could be, mash them when they are found and put the money in them in the city treasury."

"Who got the orders?"

"I talked to Director Clark about it the day before yesterday. I told him to tell Inspector Boyd to assign every detective he could spare to this work. I believe there is some question whether the machines should be smashed where they are found or brought to detective headquarters to be used as evidence. That's the way to break up that business—smash the machines. Those orders go for all kinds of vice."

The Mayor's attitude of silence for the present in regard to the Verona charges was followed by other leaders of his administration mentioned in the Third Ward alderman's statement.

"I have nothing to say," said Senator James J. Coyne. "Why should I dignify such a statement with a reply?" Roy D. Schooley, Eighth Ward chairman, also declared he has nothing to say.

Alderman C. B. Qualley, Fourth Ward, whose name was used by Verona, made brief comment.

"I can't imagine what Verona's motive was in dragging my name into his statement," he said. "He is quoted as saying that Inspector Hoey loafs in my office. I have been in the office since the first of the year and Hoey, to my knowledge, has been here only once and that time on business. I would be glad to welcome him often, as he is an efficient and honest police officer and a gentleman. If there is a gambling house nearby, as Verona is quoted as saying, I don't know where it is. I don't frequent such places and I never heard of it until I read Verona's statement."

Dr. Qualley, former Pitt football star, said he had heard that Verona charged the gambling place was above his office.

"Go up and look," he invited the reporter.

Upstairs the reporter found a large room in which a political meeting was being held at the time. Except for the speaker's table and possibly 100 chairs, most of them occupied, the place was bare.

"Ask Verona or any of his thug friends if they can produce anyone who ever paid me anything," advised Inspector James N. Hoey, special target of Verona. "I am a policeman, not a reformer, and I am not so well acquainted with the moonshine business as he appears to be. At least, I have never been arrested in a booze joint. Nor did I say I would run all the 'dagoes' off the Hill. I said I would have all underworld men who live from women run off the Hill. That includes Italians, Irish, Americans or anyone else of that caliber."

RIDICULOUS, SAYS CLARK

Director Clark today branded Verona's charges as "an outburst of anger, and too ridiculous to take cognizance of." Clark said he would stake his reputation on the clean and efficient work of Inspector Hoey, and pointed to the latter's record in cleaning up the Hill sector, where, Clark said, Hoey had closed many booze and disorderly joints and rid his district of gambling devices. Supt. of Police Walsh said he had no comment to make on Verona's charges that police were protecting the vice ring.

District Attorney Gardner today was undecided as to a possible grand jury probe into the charges made by Verona. "I have nothing to say at this time," Gardner said.

U. S. MAY ACT

Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith conferred with United States Attorney John D. Meyer, who is at Erie, over the long distance telephone today regarding the Verona charges. Nothing was disclosed as to whether the government will act.

Smith said he learned the grand jury at Erie had recessed shortly before noon, subject to recall. Meyer is expected to return to Pittsburgh tomorrow.

WHILE MOTHER LEARNS

While mothers saw and heard things pertaining to the art of good cooking, these children played under expert supervision in the nursery, which is held as an auxiliary to the school. Two trained nurses, in attendance, managed to keep the youngsters happy. Plenty of toys and games keep the "kiddies" amused while mother learns.

RED CROSS STORM FUND $8,276, ASK CLOTHES TOO

Contributions of $4,843 were received by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross yesterday for the victims of the hurricane in the West Indies and the southeastern states.

With the amounts previously reported the total fund here at the close of the tabulation of the figures is $8,276.

With each delivery of the mail a large number of checks were received late yesterday and these will materially increase the day's total. The latest information from the devastated areas indicate that the situation is worse than at first reported and greater demands are made for relief and rehabilitation.

A prompt response was reported also to the appeal for women's and children's clothing. Gifts of wearing apparel of washable material are requested to be sent to room No. 404 Chamber of Commerce Building. Clothing sent to this address can be forwarded without delay.

With a large force of volunteer emergency workers assisting at the Red Cross headquarters the hurricane relief activities are being carried on without interruption of the preparations for the annual Red Cross roll call which will take place next month in connection with the Welfare Fund canvass for 20 other social service agencies.

REACHING FOR HAT, DROWNS

A Negro known only as "Harry," about 36, was drowned in the Monongahela River last night when he slipped off the Japanese Gardens barge, near Market street, while attempting to retrieve a hat which was floating in the stream. The hat, belonging to Peter Gruber, owner of the boat, had fallen into the water a moment before when Gruber slipped into the stream. It was while Gruber was swimming to safety the Negro made the attempt to get the hat. His body was recovered by Gruber and Patrolman Frank Wickman and removed to the morgue.

PITTSBURGHER LAUDS 'ADS'

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Liberal newspaper advertising space was lauded as the best way to inform the public of the business in which you wish them to invest, by G. A. Price, trust officer of the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, in an address here today before a convention of financial advertising men. The growth of advertising in the newspapers is due to a realization on the part of business men that the responsibility of investment is an unfair burden to place upon persons lacking business experience.

The subject of the address of Mr. Price was on a campaign for the development of the life insurance trust. He said that the organization he was associated with, one of the pioneers in the promotion of trust funds for the protection of life insurance money, "sold" the idea through co-operation with life underwriters in connection with liberal advertising space in the newspapers.

WOMEN RALLY FOR HOOVER

The Republican women of Pennsylvania are aroused as they never were before and more of them will support Herbert Hoover than ever voted for any candidate, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, member of the National Committee from Pennsylvania, told 300 women at a reception yesterday afternoon in the Republican headquarters, Hotel Henry.

Speaking with Mrs. Scranton were Mrs. Gertrude Stauffer, vice chairman of the state committee, and Mrs. Hannah Durham, former vice chairman. Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, vice chairman of the county committee, presided.

The women leaders are touring the state in the interests of the Hoover campaign. They left last night for Uniontown, accompanied by Mrs. Frazier.

MT. OLIVER GIRL WINS 'TILLIE' AWARD

Anna Marie Schmieler, 13, Mt. Oliver schoolgirl, has unusual artistic talent, so has her father, Peter Joseph Schmieler, but the difference is "papa" never won a prize for anything but shoemaking while Anna Marie, is the proud recipient of The Sun-Telegraph's $26 award for Tillie the Toiler's new dress.

And is Anna Marie proud? If Russ Westover, Tillie's creator could only have seen her when The Sun-Telegraph representative handed her a check for $25, he would have been amply repaid for his labors in keeping up interest in this, one of the most popular of the Sun-Telegraph's comic strips.

"Oooh! I'm so thrilled, I can hardly believe it's true." The words tumbled out in a hurried gasp as her eyes sparkled in anticipation of new clothes, a present for her mother and father and perhaps a little party.

"Of course I wanted to win the prize, but I never thought for one minute that my drawing would be good enough", she said. "My art teacher says my work is good—she most always gives me an E and all my friends like me to draw pretty girls for them.

"Certainly I like to draw, and some day I hope to earn my living by drawing. I'd like to be a commercial artist or perhaps a designer of women's gowns. I hope Papa will help me."

Papa is a practical man—just like his own father, many year's dead in the "old country", Germany.

"Sure, she draws well", said Papa. "Why should'nt she? Wasn't I the best crayon artist in school? My teacher took me around to other schools near Cobienz to show the other boys and girls how to draw and my sister still has some of my drawings framed on the walls of our old home in Germany.

"I never had a chance to follow my artistic inclinations when I was young, though. My father had a shoe store and when I wanted to draw he would scold me and tell me to get busy learning a trade—something with which I could earn money.

"I became a shoemaker", he concluded.

The Schmieler family has lived in Mt. Oliver for many years. "Papa" Schmieler has retired. He wants his children, three boys and little Anna Marie, to have the best education possible. One son is studying medicine at Pitt and another soon will begin the study of law.

"Mama" Schmieler is proud of her daughter—justly, too. "Sure, we're going to help her and if she wants to study art, she can, but you know how it is with girls these days. Maybe she'll forget about art when she gets older. Girls get married young these days."

Charge of Murder Follows Freak Mishap

A murder indictment was returned yesterday against Frank Ciao, 25, of Wilmerding, who, it is alleged, indirectly caused the death of a man by slugging him with a bottle of gasoline which ignited and burned the victim.

Frank C. Ravella, 25, 307 Howard street, Wilmerding, the victim, died June 8 in McKeesport Hospital. The two men had been friends, but got into an argument in a tailor shop at 97 Bridge street, Wilmerding.

Siezing the gasoline bottle as a weapon, Ciao, it is alleged, brought it down on Ravella's head. The bottle broke, gasoline ran over his clothing, fumes ignited from an open gas hot plate, and Ravella was burned.

POLL INDICATES ILLINOIS GOING TO HOOVER

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
(Noted Political Analyst.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—On the basis of today's totals in the Hearst nation-wide poll, Illinois is headed for the Republican camp by a plurality of more than 300,000. This population includes the Chicago and Cook County vote.

One of the clear indications of the Illinois canvass, which now covers virtually the entire state, is that the total vote this year will be a record-smasher and in large proportions.

In some sections, notably certain spots in Chicago as well as sections out in the state, the total vote increase may run as high as 25 per cent. In isolated rural districts, the increase is showing but a slight percentage, but in these spots the Republicans are going to receive a much higher percentage of the total than ever before.

SEE ONE-FIFTH GAIN

Making due allowance for these sections and shaving down the more optimistic views of the Chicago ward leaders a bit, the indicated increase in the total vote is put at approximately 20 per cent.

Four years ago the total vote was 2,470,067. The indicated increase of 20 per cent would be upwards of 500,000, bringing the grand total to 2,970,067, out of an estimated population as of last year of 7,300,000.

A few of the local Democratic chieftains believe that the Cook county total alone this year will be more than 500,000 in excess of the 1924 vote.

40 PER CENT TO VOTE

On the basis of an estimated population this year of 7,300,000 a total vote of 2,970,067 would show a little better than 40 per cent of the entire population going to the polls.

And that may be just about the percentage when the approximate totals are tabulated on the morning of November 7.

In the state-wide Hearst poll, this morning's figures give Mr. Hoover 38,331 to 32,623 for Gov. Smith, or 55.5 per cent of the total vote. The final figures for Illinois, then, on this percentage basis and with an estimated total vote of 2,970,000 would be:

Hoover	1,648,350
Smith	1,321,650
Hoover plurality	326,700

Even on this basis the Democrats would show an unprecedented gain in their voting strength throughout Illinois, for Mr. Coolidge wound up the battle here four years ago with a plurality over Davis of 86,318. If the Hoover-Curtis ticket should win the state now as the percentage columns seem to indicate, based on the poll thus far, by no more than 326,000, it will amount to a slump in the G. O. P. plurality of approximately 550,000.

SMITH GAINS BLOCK

In this connection it is pointed out that Senator LaFollette polled 432,000 votes in Illinois four years ago. By arbitrarily switching the larger part of this vote to Smith, which the returns so far indicate is the trend, a large portion of the indicated gain in the total cast for Democrats might be accounted for.

The significance of the LaFollette vote was that more than 400,000 down-staters supported him. This support, outside of two or three industrial spots, came from the farm communities.

Republican managers are of the opinion that the down-state LaFollette vote is not going to switch to Smith in large numbers.

Democratic National Committeeman Thomas Donovan, asserts his poll shows not only the LaFollette following swinging in a body to Smith, but a veritable landslide sweep of farmers everywhere to the New Yorker's camp.

The Hearst poll, nothwithstanding, shows the Republican national ticket, as of today, safe in Abraham Lincoln's state by not less than 300,000 plurality.

FLORIDA BURIES DEAD IN FIGHT ON PLAGUE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The plague spectre today appeared over the Florida Everglades, scarcely five days behind the hurricane that took between 500 and 800 lives.

The immediate problem was recovery and burial of bodies. Living conditions in several refugee camps have been made so nearly impossible because of their presence that complete evacuation within 48 hours was considered unless some disposition was made of the dead in that time.

Already evacuation of women and children from Pahokee, Belle Glade and refugee camps along the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee was nearly completed. They left their men behind, conscripts in the battle against disease.

All efforts to check the death list had been abandoned today as officials came out of the Glades with confirmation of orders to bury as fast as possible.

537 ARE BURIED

But Gov. John W. Martin came from an inspection tour with national guard figures showing the soldiers had put 537 bodies in rough graves. Howard W. Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach county Red Cross committee, estimated the dead at between 700 and 800 after his trip yesterday, while A. L. Shafer, state disaster relief director for the American Red Cross, who accompanied him, said his original estimate of 400 dead was certain to be raised.

The call for outside help went out from Selby first. "We need financial help badly to the extent of $500,000," he said. Gov. Martin conferred with officials here, then immediately issued a call upon every mayor of Florida, for all the help possible. In one paragraph he told them why:

"There are 16,000 homeless, 8,000 without a change of clothing; property damage of more than $50,000,000, and Adjutant Gen. Vivien Collins, of the state troops, has already accounted for 537 bodies dead and buried. Seventy-one bodies now are stacked in piles at Pahokee awaiting burial and conservative estimates are that the death list will mount to more than 800. Ninety-five per cent of the homes and business property is either destroyed or damaged. The situation in the storm area beggars description."

RED CROSS ACTIVE

The work of the Red Cross was co-ordinated yesterday with the various counties, Palm Beach, Dade, Okeechobee and St. Lucie taking their quota of responsibility, although Fort Pierce in St. Lucie accepted the refugee situation in Okeechobee. Fifteen national Red Cross workers were directing where necessary, and co-operating everywhere.

State health officials, who assumed responsibility for the sanitary situation in the area, under orders from Gov. Martin, said they believed cremation would not be necessary.

No national Red Cross appeal has been made, but the national organization has asked state organizations to accept donations of every kind for the Florida chapter.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Dollars and Sense

By BERTHA R. MacDONALD

HOLIDAY festivities in Elkhart were in full swing. Patricia Duval was the most sought after of all the younger social set. She had more invitations than any other girl in town and the choicest partners at every dance, yet she was miserable.

Only 18 months before she had been plain Peggy, light hearted and care free; working honestly to earn her daily bread; happy in the love of the nicest man she ever had known.

Gregory Whitcomb was everything that was desirable—a veritable Prince Charming; a man any girl would be proud to acknowledge as her special cavalier, but alas and alack a day! Greg had one besetting sin. He was possessed of an inferiority complex, not an exaggerated type particularly, but when it was drenched with a generous splashing of stubborn pride, the combination was indeed something to reckon with.

Greg and Peg as they were familiarly known among their associates had reached that stage in their affairs commonly known as "an understanding," when Old Granville Duval died and left Peggy all of his money. Over night the little working girl's yellow pumpkin was transformed into a mighty golden chariot and Peg, its humble Cinderella, became Patricia—Princess Pat—with thousands of dollars at her command and many would-be-friends to help her spend her fortune. Her plain work-a-day world had metamorphized into a fairy land of silks and velvets, rich furs, glistening jewels. But the thing she prized above everything else in the world, was Gregory Whitcomb's regard, and that apparently had slipped from her.

There had been no quarrel, no words of any kind, not even a last fond farewell. Greg had simply left town for parts unknown, the moment he was assured of the validity of Peggy's inheritance.

During all these 18 months no word of her lost lover had come to the miserable girl. She was so cast down that she was minded to refuse all invitations until she could bring herself to face the situation sanely.

So much pressure was brought to bear from every quarter, however, that Peggy finally consented to attend a dance and was rewarded by a report from a girl friend that Greg Whitcomb was in Chicago working for a large firm as a traveling salesman.

"Tell me about him!" Patricia begged when the friend jokingly told of Greg's whereabouts. "Do you see him often? Is he well? Does—does he ever ask—about anybody in Elkhart?"

"Still interested, aren't you" The girl laughed. "Well I've seen your erstwhile boy friend twice, during visits to my aunt. He seems well, but he did not even mention Elkhart to me. See here, Princess Pat, why do you go mooning around over a poor traveling salesman when you could have your choice of a dozen elegant fellows right here in town?"

"Because Greg is the only man I ever did or will ever care for. He rushed away merely because I happened to fall heir to some money—afraid he'd be branded a fortune hunter! Oh I know that was it, although he never said so. We weren't actually engaged, you know. Greg's the soul of honor. If we had been he never would have gone away like that."

"You should worry. Brace up, Pat, and go after some one else. It will serve Greg jolly well right."

"But I'm not going after any one else," she whispered into her pillow that night. "I'm going straight after Greg, now that I know where he is, and if he doesn't ask me to marry him, I shall propose to him myself."

Lady Luck favored Patricia. By dint of correspondence and telegraphing, she learned that Greg was soon to be in South Bend. She also managed to locate his hotel. Cutting every engagement she boarded an early train without revealing to any one her destination.

When she reached South Bend she registered at the hotel as Princess Patricia of E——, contriving to throw about herself an air of elegance and mystery which commanded the utmost attention from all the bell hops and other attaches about the place.

Having satisfied herself that her lover was registered there as per his company's schedule, she indulged in an orgy of shopping from which she did not return until the dinner hour. She was so afraid she would miss seeing "her man" that she was loathe to take time for dinner, finally compromising by having a light supper served to her in a sheltered nook in the lobby.

When at last Peg saw Gregory come in about 10:30 and go straight to the elevator, her heart did a trip hammer tattoo which she was sure everybody in the hotel office could hear.

Disguising her penmanship she sent a note up to his room about 11:30, asking him to come down to the parlor floor for a few moments to meet an old friend.

Gregory's face went white as he came into the parlor and discovered his old friend's identity. For a moment Peggy thought he was going to turn about and go back.

"Greg!" she cried, running up to him and taking his hand. "I—I had to see you. Do—do you think you've been quite fair with me?"

"Peg——" Gregory's voice was almost a moan—"don't take advantage of me. You must know how I love you and how I've hungered to see you again. You must know, too, that I couldn't ask an heiress to marry a pauper. If ever we had gotten to that point before—before your luck came, of course I shouldn't have gone away, but——"

"What have dollars to do with sense, Greg? Why am I so much less desirable because I happen to have a few coppers in the bank? It's that stubborn pride of yours, isn't it?"

"Will it help any," Peggy went on, pressing her lover's hand against her heart, "to know that just today I gave my money away—every single penny of it?"

"No, it won't!" Gregory returned, a trace of acidity in his tone. "Do you think I ever could be comfortable knowing I had made you do that?"

"It's done, anyway, and now, you're all I have left."

"But you can get it back, can't you? To whom did you give it?"

"To a man who has left Elkhart, so I can't get it back right away, you see."

During the whole of this discussion Patricia had been furtively watching a Grandfather clock which stood near the door. At this moment it began to strike and both the man and the girl remained silent while they counted twelve. The moment the last stroke died on the air Peggy leaned closer and said to her lover, "Will you marry me, Gregg?"

Gregory was flabbergated. He did not seem able to speak so the little lady who was asking for his hand in marriage saw an opportunity to stress her point.

"It wouldn't be like you to refuse a lady, and besides I've just told you that I'm as poor as I was the first time you told me you loved me."

"No, Peg," Gregg answered, shaking his head, while a warm smile wreathed his boyish features, "I couldn't refuse you anything. Of course I'll marry you but you've got to ask that guy to give you back your money."

"I don't want to. You see the man is one I think a great deal of—so much that I put all the maidenly pride I ever owned in my pocket and asked him to come back to me after he had deliberately run away and left me."

"STARVING DIETS" DENOUNCED AT COOK SCHOOL

War. He is William W. Hunnewell, one of the custodians at the hall, who has just celebrated his eightieth birthday. In commemoration of that event Mrs. Crabtree presented him with a birthday cake on behalf of the school. The aged veteran was loudly applauded as he passed down the aisle to receive the presentation.

Mrs. Crabtree was introduced to yesterday's audience by Mrs. A. L. Vincill, president of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. In introducing Mrs. Crabtree, Mrs. Vincill said: "It takes a thousand men to make a regiment, but it takes but one woman to make a home. And Mrs. Crabtree replied: "It is fine that the Congress of Women's Clubs is in such harmony with The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that it sponsors the school and sends a representative to each lecture to introduce me.

FAT A DISEASE

"Obesity is a diseased condition," Mrs. Crabtree asserted in her lecture, continuing: "If you are a fat person you are a sick person. Do you know that hospitals dread to see fat persons come for operations? Fat imposes a burden on the heart."

In beginning her lecture, the speaker said:

"I know nothing that requires more strength of character than to reduce, that is, unless it is to stay reduced. If you are middle-aged it is especially hard to reduce. You younger women, don't let flesh accumulate. When middle-aged you can safely reduce the quantity of food—but maintain the variety."

Then Mrs. Crabtree, after explaining that she was very stout at one time, continued:

"I give diet credit for my loss of weight, because, as it was in the summer time, I was too lazy to exercise. But I have recovered from that deplorable state of mind now and think nothing of a five or 10-mile walk. But have the right shoes—not ungainly shoes, but shoes with lots of snap and style, with reasonably sensible heels and arch preservers."

With force she exclaimed: "I don't believe in starvation diets; I don't believe in fad diets. We hear of young women wrecking their health and even dying from the lack of nourishment."

Here Mrs. Crabtree pointed out that when she was dieting she didn't eat potatoes, rice, macaroni, nuts, corn, whole milk, salmon, ham or bacon, which she said are starches and fats. "This list will shrink into insignificance if you compare it with the things that remain that you may eat even though you are dieting," she added.

ADVISES FRESH FRUITS

She continued, in part: "I ate fresh fruits in abundance, and one slice of whole wheat bread at a meal. I'm not condemning white bread, but the whole wheat has the advantage of having the roughage in it, the bran. If I can't get whole wheat bread I don't eat any bread at all.

"I needed a certain amount of fat to keep from getting gullies in my face. I got it from salad dressings.

"I took my coffee black. It is the cream and sugar that do the mischief. Being a true Southerner I used to take bread on my butter. Let the fats alone when you're reducing. Now it has become second nature for me to watch my diet and I don't consider it at all burdensome.

"Obese people as a rule eat too much. It is wrong because they assimilate all they eat. The large people who seem small eaters at the table may be secret eaters—having a box of chocolates hidden in the bureau drawer or something.

"Many women eat a good square meal in the kitchen, tasting food while preparing the dinner.

"When persons begin dieting they may imagine they're hungry. But they are generally false hunger pains, the stomach having got into the habit of expecting more food than necessary. A good remedy for these false hunger pains is a glass of water.

"There is no better way to judge the state of your health than by weighing yourself frequently."

In concluding the lecture, Mrs. Crabtree stated that "reduction that is too rapid works havoc with health—to say nothing of looks."

Mrs. Crabtree speaks in a highly entertaining manner. Her lectures and talks contain touches of human interest and humor.

In talks, preceding and following the lecture, Mrs. Crabtree also stressed a number of pertinent thoughts. At one time she declared: "Your dishes are as good as the ingredients you put in them."

Then again: "When you have ambition to run a home efficiently you are going to have a plan—correct methods, modern equipment, good ingredients."

At another time she asserted: "Learn not to practice economy when it comes to food for children; give them the best."

RECIPES DEMONSTRATED

Many palatable recipes were offered during the afternoon, prepared on the platform where all could see. These included recipes for chocolate meringue pie, fruited cup cakes, glorified rice, frozen fruit salad, sparkling French dressing, icing, mock angel food cake and omelet.

In commenting on the omelet, Mrs. Crabtree pointed out that omelets should be served on a hot platter, saying: "Many women make good omelets but put them on a cold dish and naturally they curl up and die."

The art of coffee making also came in for some comment, when Mrs. Crabtree said: "Good coffee is one of the essentials of a good and pleasant day. We all know how dissatisfied we are if we don't have a cup of good coffee for breakfast." Then she added: "Don't percolate your coffee too long. Personally, I don't percolate it over three minutes."

When one of the women of the audience mentioned the subject of biscuits, the cooking authority said: "Indigestible? Well I was raised on hot biscuits and I will run a race with anyone."

BISCUIT RECIPE

And this proffer to race was followed by a biscuit recipe, comprising these ingredients: Two cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of Crisco and two-thirds of a cup of pasteurized milk, and the instructions—bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes; mix biscuit dough the night before.

From biscuits to music may seem a far cry, but Mrs. Crabtree introduced many interesting comments pertaining to other things besides food, cooking and health. While a mechanical musical program was in progress, preceding her lecture, Mrs. Crabtree injected: "Do you know how valuable it is to listen to music played correctly? You have the pleasure of listening to the most admirable music ever composed. What would a home be, what would a school be without music? There is no limit to the repertory with reproducing piano music."

NURSERY A SUCCESS

As usual, the nursery, where mothers may leave their babies while attending the school, was in operation. Again it served to amuse and keep happy a number of small children while their mothers learned new facts about food and health. Two nurses are in charge of the nursery, which, like the school itself, is free.

LETTER BARES FRANCO-BRITISH NAVAL PACT

NOTE TO ENVOYS SHOWS HIDDEN PARLEYS

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.)

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Herewith is presented exclusively the authenticated text of a letter recently distributed by the French Foreign Office to French Ambassadors in the principal countries revealing a secret agenda agreed upon by England and France for any new disarmament discussions.

The importance of this document is that it shows the British and French Foreign Offices have agreed to disregard the contention of the United States, set forth at the abortive Geneva naval conference last year, for a limitation of auxiliary cruisers.

It reveals also the basis of the mystifying conversations over a secret agreement between England and France, about which practically the entire world has been speculating for several months.

The French Letter

The French ministry's letter is as follows:

"Ministry of Foreign Affairs,
"Direction of Political and Commercial Affairs,
"Paris, August 3, 1928.
"Minister of Foreign Affairs, to—

"In keeping you informed of the negotiations of the fifth session of the preparatory commission on disarmament, I advised you in my collective dispatch of March 29 last, that in the event of a technical understanding between the French, American and Japanese navies, the British Admiralty was not disposed for a general conversation between the five signatory powers of the Treaty of Washington, regarding the naval problem which for more than a year has been keeping in suspense the work of the League of Nations for a conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments.

"The British government manifested none the less a great desire to bring this about, and its insistence in this respect has increased ever since. Naturally, the British government could but expect a favorable reception from us, since the difficult discussions of the last session of the commission only strengthened our apprehension of the dangers of reuniting without a preliminary agreement between the great naval powers to permit us to go into a second reading of the Convention for Arms Limitation.

Franco-British Parleys

"The technical conversations, undertaken by the French and British naval experts on the basis of the proposition of Sir Austen Chamberlain aforementioned, finally resulted in a new British proposition.

"After deliberation of the French Superior Council of National Defense, and by means of certain precisions, the following has served as the basis of an entente between the French and British Governments which became concrete in the following formula, which is further explained by a new projected plan for the limitation of naval material."

(The following is taken textually from the Franco-British agreement)

"'Limitation for which a conference for disarmament will sit will deal with the following four classes of naval units:

"'1—Capital ships, that is to say, ships of more than 10,000 tons, or armed with guns of more than eight inches caliber.

"'2—Airplane carriers of more than 10,000 tons.

"'3—Surface ships of 10,000 tons, or less, armed with guns of caliber higher than six inches and up to eight inches.

"'4—Deep-water submarines, that is to say, more than 600 tons'.

"With regard to Classes 3 and 4, the final Disarmament Conference will fix the maximum tonnage applicable to all powers which no power will be authorized to exceed for the total number of ships in each respective category during the period covered by this convention.

"Within this maximum limit, each power will indicate to the final conference, for each of these categories, the tonnage she proposes to reach, and which she proposes not to exceed during the period of time covered by the convention.

Interests Clash

"As long as our maritime interests for defense purposes were properly guarded, the principal task of the government of the Republic has been to bring about in the course of negotiations with England the possibility of adherence of other navies to the solution in view, and above all that of the United States, whose aspirations, you were informed by my communication of September 4, 1927, have clashed with the vital interests of the British Empire since the unfruitful conference between England, America and Japan last year.

"The exclusion of small cruisers from all limitation seemed to us to be the only solution of the problem in hand between England and the United States, raised by the insistence of the British Admiralty in placing cruisers in two categories.

"As you know, in fact, at the tri-partite conference, while agreement between England and the United States was nearly reached so far as concerned the special limitation of larger cruisers, by the same token the demand of England in so far as it concerned the characteristics of total tonnage of smaller cruisers provoked the rupture of the Anglo-American technical conversations, and the definite break-up of the conference.

"The principal reason was that the maximum caliber of six inches demanded by the British Admiralty for the artillery of smaller cruisers was also the same caliber authorized in the Washington Treaty for commercial ships transformed into auxiliary cruisers.

"It would follow then that even though the United States did possess the same number of smaller cruisers as England, the strength of the British fleet as to the number of ships of this type could be considerably increased as soon as hostilities opened, due to the considerable number of auxiliary cruisers Great Britain possesses in her commercial fleet and which the United States does not.

"But in a conversation with M. Paul Boncour during the session of the Leage of Nations last June Sir Austen Chamberlain clearly stated the impossibility for his government to accept any system whatsoever of naval limitations that did not at the same time carry the special limitation of larger cruisers.

"In view of this, and in view of the successive technical concessions which the Admirality has made since the naval conference, it was clear that they attach capital interest only to this particular point. 'It was this, then, that in order to reduce the number of categories they demanded in the first place. The proposition made by Sir Austen Chamberlain in March maintained a category of large cruisers, but at the same time did not even distinguish smaller cruisers from torpedo boats.

"We were thus led to consider that the only method of removing the difficulty was to accord to the Admirality a special limitation of larger cruisers, but to exclude any limitation for smaller cruisers.

"Exclusion of all limitation of submarines for coastal defense solved at the same time the problem which the insistence of the British Admiralty had raised in obtaining strict limitation of submarines with great radius of action. Under this guise, the new solution would satisfy not only our navy, but also the navy of Japan, whose representatives had demanded with insistence this exclusion during the preparatory naval conference.

Small Craft Not Limited

"This exclusion necessarily forced us to abandon the traditional French policy of limitation of naval units of figures of global tonnage comprehending all warships of whatsoever type, each power remaining more or less free to divide this tonnage between types most appropriate for special necessities, or even momentary interests of its defense at sea.

"In order to permit an agreement between the great naval powers, France has finally aligned herself to the thesis of limitation by categories, but it is necessary to remark that the liberty of construction which our navy sought in limitation of global tonnage was found in the exclusion of all limitation of units of character so defensive as small cruisers and submarines for coast defense.

"In this way, the interests of defence of small naval countries was entirely protected, especially those naval powers who have no program of distinctive construction, and who were counted since the beginning of preparatory work for disarmament among the most devoted partisans of our Naval thesis.

"Besides, Italy could logically find therein her compensations for abandonment of the thesis of global tonnage, which she had always up to this time almost integrally maintained without even allying herself to the transactional propositions that M. Paul Boncour had made to the great naval powers in March, 1927, and which are related in my communication of September 4, last year.

"Finally, the new Franco-English formula of naval limitations justifies the distinction that the French Navy ever since the beginning of preparatory work for disarmament has continued to make between the extent of limitation which should correspond theoretically for each navy with a guarantee of security of national interests, and figures which in practice would not exceed the naval program of construction or replacement."

RECORD SEIZURE SPURS PHILADELPHIA VICE PROBE

LIST IN BREWERY BOOKS MAY BRING MORE ARRESTS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(A.P.)—Seizure of the records of the Weisbrod and Hess Brewery by District Attorney Monaghan was considered today one of the most important developments in the grand jury investigation of bootleggers, gang murders and bribery of the police, since the inquiry was started more than a month ago.

Reports that the district attorney had established connections between the brewery and a group of politicians and prominent citizens were current, but Mr. Monaghan would not confirm them.

"The books," the prosecutor said, "contain more exceedingly interesting data, and I look for developments. All of the books and papers are being examined thoroughly by my men and by a group of government agents.

"Our immediate task calls for a little patience and plenty of hard work. I can say we have made excellent progress and more arrests are likely to be made soon, but when they are made I want a clean-cut case. I expect to get several cases of that type."

Capt. Charles W. Schoenleber, commanding the Fourth and York Street Police Station, and more than 150 saloonkeepers of the northeast section of the city, were under subpena to appear before the grand jury today.

Many of the saloonkeepers were from the district covered by the Trenton avenue and Dauphin street police station from which three district detectives, a policeman and an alleged collector for a saloonkeepers' association have been held for court on charges of bribery made by a saloon proprietor.

Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, designated by the district attorney as the "king of bootleggers," who has been required to spend all day in the corridors outside of the jury room waiting to be called, has been put on "half-time." Until further orders he will have to be around only in the afternoon.

CRANE CHAIN FATALLY INJURES WORKMAN

Struck by a swinging crane chain in the mill of the Copper-Weld Steel Company at Glassport early today, John Mappa, 50, of Fleet street, Rankin, was fatally injured. He died a half hour later in the emergency hospital in the plant.

SIXTH COURT ROOM ASKED, FIVE CLOGGED WITH TRIALS

The district attorney's office has become so jammed with criminal jury cases that an additional court room is necessary.

President Judge John A. Evans, Common Pleas Court yesterday requested County Commissioners at a salary board meeting to relieve the situation by creating a number of positions to handle the duties of the new court room.

Five court rooms used to hear criminal jury trials, exclusive of the assignment room, are found to be insufficient to handle the increased volume of cases this year. The new court room will be opened next week.

District Attorney Samuel Gardner also declared another court room necesary if his calendar were to be cleared this year.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Losing a $10 bet that he could drive his automobile from Connellsville to Brownsville in 25 minutes by only two minutes, Clyde Blocker now faces the possibility of "losing" again when he faces Police Magistrate J. E. Wallace for speeding.

ARMSTRONG IS SIGNING BY HAND

Because he declines to use a "new-fangled" multiple signature machine, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong today took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and tackled the job of writing his name 5,003 times on $5,000,000 of county bonds. He expects to be at the task three days.

Controller Robert G. Woodside and Commissioner E. V. Babcock each signed the bonds in 33 minutes Wednesday in the office of the New York Signature Company with the aid of a big "dummy" pen that copies a signature 18 times simultaneously. Commissioner C. C. McGovern, evidently wearied by testifying before the Senate Vare investigating committee, required one hour for the task after going to New York from Washington yesterday.

The bonds arrived this morning at the Pennsylvania station and were taken to the controller's office under a guard of three county detectives. It is said to have been the largest batch of bonds similarly conveyed. The securities will not be negotiable until Armstrong's signature and seals have been attached.

The bonds are for road, bridge and park improvements, authorized in the $45,500,000 peoples bond issue last June, with exception of $303,000 voted in 1924.

GOOD LUCK

MARGARINE

Two sandwiches were served to each scout. "Do you detect any difference?" was asked. Not a scout—not one—could tell one from the other. Yet one sandwich was spread with GOOD LUCK and one with an expensive spread for bread.

WHEREVER the Challenge Flavor Test is made, always the result is the same. Neither the unspoiled appetites of young folk nor the educated palates of food connoisseurs can find any difference between Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine and the most expensive spread-for-bread.

The latest "jury" to test and judge this issue are the sixteen alert, vigorous and healthy girls comprising a Troop of Girl Scouts.

But despite a sense of taste as keen as their sight and hearing, these young lovers of outdoor life decided unanimously that Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine and the most expensive spread-for-bread were exactly alike in flavor.

IF these keen tastes can't discover any difference it's unlikely that your own family will. You might just as well have the saving this high grade margarine gives. Try the Challenge Flavor Test yourself, at home, unannounced! Let the family decide.

RETURNED TO HOME

After all of Chicago's police searched futilely for the kidnapers who held and threatened the life of William Ranieri, he was unexpectedly released, found by police and returned to his mother, Mrs. A. Frank Ranieri. This was taken just after his return.

Ransomed Boy Is Slain

HONOLULU, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Honolulu met the horror of its first major crime today with police, the military and scores of volunteers organized into working units to hunt down the kidnaper and slayer of Gill Jamieson, 10-year-old son of Frederick W. Jamieson, banker.

The body of the boy, kidnaped from school Tuesday, was found yesterday on the banks of the Alawai canal, near the fashionable Royal Hawaiian Hotel. Physicians said he had been strangled to death.

The Chamber of Commerce reward fund had reached $10,000 last night, and a total fund of $20,000 for arrest of the kidnapers was expected before nightfall today.

Physicians believed the boy had been killed Tuesday night, a few hours after he had been kidnaped, and possibly within a few minutes of the time his frenzied father had handed over $4,000 to a man who promised the safe return of the lad.

EX-SENATOR CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Guy W. Brown, former State Senator, vice president of two Fayette county banks, whose failure a year ago sent a dozen business concerns and 20 individuals to the wall, today was indicted by the Federal grand jury on charges of embezzling and misappropriating funds of the banks. Three indictments were returned. His brother, Jesse R. Brown, also was named in one of the indictments.

Guy Brown was vice president of the Fayette City National Bank from 1902 until its collapse, July 7, 1927. He was a director of the Fayette City Bank and a director of the First National Bank of Webster.

While Guy Brown is specifically charged with defalcations amounting to $137,569.28, it is said his peculations will exceed that amount. Some of the money alleged to have been taken belonged to the Redstone Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, of which Brown was treasurer. Bonds of the Fayette City Water Department also were involved.

Both of the defendants were indicted on one count, the technicality of which keeps it aloof from the 27 others named in one bill. This count alleges that they embezzled a number of Fayette City Water Company bonds amounting to $10,000. An indictment alleges that Guy Brown embezzled $7,475 from the Webster National Bank.

The manipulation of the Fayette National Bank books is said to have been done by the former state senator misapplying credits, discounting of fictitious notes and crediting of proceeds of fictitious papers into his own personal account at the bank. He also is charged with falsifying the credits of the United Home Mining Corporation and the Marcon Coal Company. Guy Brown was vice president of the Fayete City National Bank and an officer of the Marcon Coal Company.

Trial of the charges will be held at November term in Pitsburgh.

Shortly before noon today, Senator Brown, accompanied by his attorney, Joseph F. Howley, appeared at the United States Marshal's office inquiring the amount of bond that would be required for Brown. He was told that the records of the case had not been received from Erie.

Brown, formerly a power in Fayette county politics and a state senator from that district, now resides at 213 South Aiken avenue. His brother, Jesse B. Brown, also indicted, resides in Brookline boulevard.

Pit Relief Records Vanish

Alfred Wagenknecht, with offices in the Lyceum Building, 611 Penn avenue, custodian of records of three miners' relief committees, has vanished, government officers reported today.

Since Wednesday morning, postoffice inspectors and deputy United States marshals have sought in vain to serve a subpena on Wagenknecht on order of the Federal Court at Erie, acting on recommendation of the federal grand jury.

The subpena directs Wagenknecht to produce before the federal grand jury records of the Western Pennsylvania Miners' Relief Committee, the Pennsylvania-Ohio Miners' Relief Committee and the National Miners' Relief Committee.

The subpena demands all papers bearing on collections and disbursements of money, merchandise, clothing and other articles, including ledgers, journals, cash boxes, canceled checks and drafts. The purpose, it is said, is to determine whether the postal laws were violated by operation of the relief committees.

The court ordered a subpena issued Tuesday, after United States Attorney John D. Meyer went before the grand jury at Erie, and that body recommended issuance of the subpena. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker previously had delayed temporarily action on a petition by Meyer for a subpena. Counsel for the relief committee had contended the government's petition was too broad in its scope.

Meyer was foiled last Friday in an effort to get possession of the relief committee's records. A subpena was issued for the documents wanted but while it was being served and the records assembled, the grand jury, then sitting here, adjourned and the order was rescinded.

BUYER OF EXCHANGE SEAT AT $415,000 IS CALIFORNIAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—James Wilcox Drake, of Los Angeles, Cal., is disclosed as the purchaser of the seat on the New York Stock Exchange at the record-breaking price of $415,000.

The seat formerly was held by Spencer W. Aldrich, of W. D. Moore & Co., who was recently suspended for failure to meet his obligations.

The proceeds will be used to discharge his debts.

Albert R. Brand sold his seat for the same price to Joseph H. Remson, a member of the New York curb market.

DAKE WINS $3,960

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kan.; John Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., and Robert Cantwell, of Duncan, Okla., were announced last night as official winners of Classes A, B and C respectively in the recent New York-to-Los Angeles air derbies, a part of the national air race meet at Nines Field here.

Livingston won the largest share of the $75,000 prize money awarded in connection with the meet, collecting $12,410. Besides winning in Class B he won considerable lap money and several special prize races here.

Rowland collected second high money of $8,210, while Cantwell won $7,155.

William Drury, 22, was designated as winner of the international race from Windsor, Ont., and collected $6,750. Kenneth Whyte, only other finisher, won $2,500.

Other big money winners were E. E. Ballough, Chicago, $7,725; Robert Dake, Pittsburgh, $3,960; John H. Wood, Wausau, Wis., $3,575, and Capt. C. D. B. Collyer, New York, $3,425.

MERCER SUPERVISORS TO CLEAN CEMETERY

MERCER, Pa. Sept. 21—Road supervisors of Hickory township were ordered by Judge J. A. McLaughry to clean up the cemetary of Amity Lutheran church in that township. Twenty-five church members petitioned for the order and the commissioners are directed to cut grass and weeds twice each year.

Poor Advice Costs Tax Payer's $1,091

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 21.—Wrongly advised by an internal revenue agent, Daniel Ritter, of Indiana, Pa., must stand the loss of an overpayment of $1,091.81 he made to the collector of internal revenue at Pittsburgh on his income for the year 1917.

With an expression of regret that Ritter must pay for the error, although blaming him to some extent for his negligence in not confirming the advice given him, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday ruled it was obliged to deny his claim to a refund for the overpayment, because it had been filed too late.

Under the internal revenue laws, the court held, claim refund must be made within four years.

The appeal was taken by Ritter on a decision by Federal Judge Schoonmaker, in Pittsburgh.

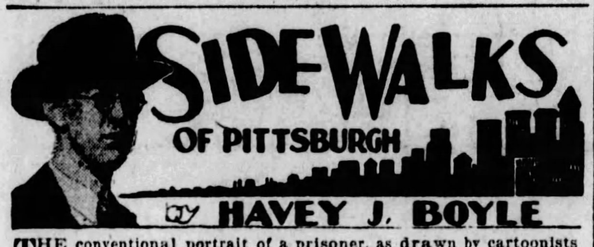
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE conventional portrait of a prisoner, as drawn by cartoonists and stage folks, is a character in stripes, with a ball attached to one leg by a heavy chain. There is hardly such a figure in America, any more. The stripes have been done away with, and the ball and chain are no more. Even the well-shaved head has disappeared. Most prisoners are allowed whatever hair nature has endowed them with. A blue uniform, like a two-piece suit of overalls, is the usual prison garb now, and only seldom does a prisoner go through periods of downright distress. And, then, only when his conduct has been such that the safety of the prison is endangered.

Not long ago we saw two men suffering solitary confinement. That may sound paradoxical at first, but the two men were in a dark prison block, unlighted, and separated from all contact with the rest of the prison. Each had a cell to himself. He sat on a bed, with just a spring, and nothing in his cell or beyond, but inky darkness. Both had been found stealing tobacco from fellow prisoners. Their meals consisted of bread and water. Their term in this particular confinement was for 72 hours.

THIS was the closest approach to the old-time conception of punishment in the penitentiary we visited. And this was necessary for the welfare of other prisoners. The other prisoners worked from 8 until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, after which they were allowed outdoor recreation all afternoon.

It was Warden Herbert Smith who told what he thought about his charges. "I would sooner trust some of the men in here than some of the men I meet beyond the walls," he said. "On the other hand there are some men in here who could not be law-abiding if they wanted to be. I have a prisoner here who would work his hands off here keeping the boilers he attends to in perfect condition. In here he could not be better. But outside he's not worth a nickel. A wealthy man got him a pardon and gave him a small job around the rich man's private garage. The first night the pardoned man stole everything in sight. Now he's back. In here he is the best fellow you'd care to meet and the best workman I ever saw."

IN PITTSBURGH there is a woman known as the jail angel. Her name is Annie McFetridge. For 35 years she has administered to the unfortunate men and women who have run afoul of the law. Her specialty is raising funds with which a prisoner released can help himself to a better way of life. It is her record that she has never prayed for needed funds but that somehow they reached her.

A woman about to be released was awaiting $7 which her husband, in the workhouse, was sending her. A letter came, but minus the postoffice money order which was reported enclosed. Miss McFetridge went to see George Craighead, dean of postoffice inspectors. He could find no clue. He was generous enough, however, to volunteer the shortage out of his own pocket. But Miss Fetridge declined, saving the good inspector, perhaps, for another rainy day. She breathed a prayer as she turned to go, so runs the story, and as she walked away she espied a crumpled bit of paper just outside Inspector Craighead's door. You have guessed it. It was the missing money order. Fantastic? But Annie McFetridge could tell you far more marvelous things than this concerning the efficacy of prayers for the unfortunate.

VOLUNTEER welfare work is not always tearful, of course. Some years ago when duty called us to police stations on Sunday mornings to report hearings there came volunteer workers who would read the Bible and on a small organ would play, while a companion would sing. All the prisoners, unhappily, did not want to be reformed. Some of them, suffering a "hangover" quite loudly objected to the quality of the singers' voices, and other prisoners joined in the singing to produce what was not always an inspiring chorus.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Sept. 21, 1928.

Let's lay off politics today and get down to something necessary and worth while.

I don't think we are taking as much interest in this Florida and West Indies relief as we should.

Florida is in real need. The Red Cross needs much greater funds than have been sent.

I know giving to campaign funds this year, when the competition is so keen, has about got everybody broke, but I think Florida is worth more to us than trying to get the post offices for the next four years.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE Oklahoma Futurity has been raced and won. The winning steed is owned by old Pop Caffey, night watchman at the Maryland Refinery.

One Sunday evening, Pop was strolling down the main stem of Ponca City, Oklahoma, when he heard the clatter of terrapin hoofs and paused to look.

A turtle rushed by with his throttle wide open.

Pop grabbed him and entered him in the 101 Ranch Turtle Derby which is held in Oklahoma the second Tuesday after the first tornado in September.

Pop got himself first prize of $4,500, which ain't hay.

He named the winner Sunday, which was the day Pop found him.

Of course it ain't very kipper publicity for Ponca City to have the finding of Sunday broadcast.

First of all it is dangerous to have turtles racing on the town's principal drag. Second, it might have been all right if Sunday had been entering the city with the view of taking up a legal residence.

But he was leaving.

Ponca defends itself by saying that an inscription on Sunday's shell proves that Guthrie, Oklahoma, was using Sunday as a speed cop.

The turtle handicap is over a distance of 75 feet and Sunday broke all records by finishing in one minute, 47 seconds, collapsed time.

A turtle gallops for only one reason. Your put him in the hot sunshine and he races to find shade.

The city of Lima states that, if this is a fact, a smart turtle would continue on right through Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana until he reached Ohio.

Anonymous and Uncle Joe finished second and third. There was no protest that Sunday elbowed on the turns.

Forty-five turtles also ran.

M'QUHAE SINGS FOR ATWATER

Allen McQuhae and the Sittig Trio will present the Atwater Kent Sunday night concert, when the Irish tenor will sing a number of heart songs. The string instrumentalists will play Liebestraum and Slumber Song.

Perhaps the most popular of McQuhae's contributions will be the first of the song hits by Carrie Jacobs Bond, "Just a Wearyin' for You," which appeared in the first of this noted song writer's collections published in Chicago.

Among the other numbers on McQuhae's program will be "My Pretty Jane" (When the Bloom is on the Rye), by Sir Henry Rowley Bishop, for the first half of the past century the leader in London musical circles: "The Snowy Breasted Pearl" (Oh, She Is Not Like the Rose), an old Irish air; "Little Mother of Mine;" "Within the Garden of My Heart;" "The Bellman;" and "Because," the popular song by Guy d'Hardelot. Elmer Zoller will play the piano accompaniment.

SWEPT AWAY HIS HEALTH TROUBLES

Another Local Man Endorses Ten Herbs; Claims It is a Wonderful Medicine.

"I was another victim of indigestion, biliousness and constipation who tried Ten Herbs," was the recent statement of Mr. Francis M. Moore, 7530 Kelly Street, East End, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store,

MR. FRANCIS M. MOORE

529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "And now I gladly add my endorsement to the hundreds of endorsements your wonderful medicine has received here," Mr. Moore continued. "I am a machinist at the Pennsylvania Railroad shops, and I often felt so bad that I thought I would have to give up, but now I am in tiptop condition. I used to have to be very careful what I ate, as gas would form and work up around my heart, causing it to palpitate. There was a continual gnawing sensation that kept me awake at night. I had terrible pains across my back and had to rise three or four times at night. Dizzy spells came on me; and I was always taking physics. I was terribly nervous. My whole system seemed to be in an acid condition. I had rheumatism in my shoulders so badly that I could hardly raise my arms above my head. I could not lie on my back at night. My right ankle would swell and be very painful.

"A few bottles of Ten Herbs changed all these conditions. I have a good appetite. There is no more gas or heart palpitation, and that gnawing sensation has disappeared. My bowels are regular, and my other organs seem to be working properly. Rheumatism has left my shoulders, and the pains are gone from my back. My ankle does not swell any more, and my nerves are quiet. I shall gladly tell anyone personally about my experience with Ten Herbs."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Benny Notes Difference Between Quiet Ann and Careless Diana

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On his first day in Manor Park, where he is to apply the business methods learned in college, Benjamin Carrington Black has occasion to observe three of the suburban town's most alluring examples of feminity. Unnoticed by men, he sees Diana Rand—nineteen and pretty, enter a jewelry store with her friend, Beatrice Sheldon, whose trailing dress is reminiscent of the Gay Nineties. In the store Diana and Bea encounter Ann Evarts, a trim, petite person. Ann in Diana's roadster sees Noddy and Toddy and Norman Gregory and leaves Diana and Beatrice to join them. Bea and her brother, Freddie, prepare for the party at the Yacht Club. And before leaving their parents warn them to behave like "Sheldons." Freddie calls for Ann, whose mother had just told her she must marry soon or go to work. Benny also attends the party where Diana and her friends meet him. It is a gay affair, with Diana being the life of it. Benny is fascinated by the quiet Ann, who makes believe that she does not like "wild" parties. Diana, after the party, tells her mother all about Benny. She meets him several times and falls in love with him. Mrs. Evarts is anxious that her daughter, Ann, fall in love with Benny. However, he is afraid he is falling in love with Diana. Ann tells Norman that Beatrice has a past. At North Lake where the crowd are for a week, Norman questions Bea about her past and she confesses. He then asks her to marry him. Diana saves Benny from drowning while at North Lake. Diana dreams of the future when Benny professes his love for her. The crowd goes to a party, while Benny and Ann are left in camp, after Ann feigns illness.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

WHAT a difference between the two girls—between this gentle creature and Diana! One flinging herself into his arms, ready to give freely—too freely—or was she? Surely this seemed so. And the other, this pretty child, holding love sacred for the man she one day would marry. A difference—indeed!

He said, bitterly, "A man wants to be sure his name and his honor will be safe in the hands of the girl he marries."

The flower face turned to him, quivering; hesitating a great deal while a timid little hand slipped into his, turned under his fingers.

"Benny—you won't mind my saying this? I've wished to tell you, ask you to be careful. You won't be led away? Deceived by appearances? Infatuation? You won't let your life be ruined?"

So she knew how it was with him! A sensible little head on her shoulders, speaking in this friendly disinterested way. With pure, clear insights she had seen the situation, recognized the danger besetting him. Well, he too had seen that danger—seen it while there still was time. No fear of him being deceived now, led into wrong ways.

He told her this and her eyes filled with tears, "I'm glad," she whispered. "So glad for you!"

Her head drooped, rested against his shoulder, she was smiling a little, watching him under her lashes.

He kissed her again—heard her catch a breath—felt her lips, shy and sweet, returning the kiss. "Oh, Benny," she sighed. "You do care! I'm so happy—so very, very happy!"

"Dear little Ann. . . ." He could think of nothing else to say. The night seemed chill suddenly and he glanced about, wished he might go back to the cottage. But she was holding him, half lying in his arms, and he could not disturb her without seeming abrupt. Uneasiness was gnawing at his spirit; he began to feel that he had not been entirely circumspect. The girl had taken those couple of kisses more seriously than he wished she would. The result of inexperience. But, good heavens, had she never been kissed before?

He tried to disengage himself, pretending to search himself for a handkerchief. But she gave him hers, playfully, and he settled back.

Then the sound of motors brought him a surge of relief; he would have got up, gone to meet the returning party, had not Ann's little hands closed on his arm in a grip surprisingly strong. "Not yet, Benny. Wait till they're in. So wonderful, being here with you. I don't want to lose a minute of it."

"But," he objected nervously, "what shall we tell them? Explain this. I don't see what we can say——"

"Oh, it's all right—now!" she declared happily. "How delighted mother will be! She knew how I felt about you, dear." Her nose burrowed into his coat and he attempted to figure out her meaning, only to have his mind go blank.

A misunderstanding somewhere—things radically wrong. Did this frail, lovely child think, because he had kissed her—but that was nonsense, of course. Everything would straighten out if he just sat tight. Only it was puzzling, all this.

He heard the crowd laughing and singing snatches of songs. They were stopping at his cottage, Diana was calling, "Come on out, Benny! The night is young—come out and play!"

They waited a moment, chattering; went on to the bungalow. He got up now and held his hand to Ann. Exactly what happened he could not have told, but as she rose a pebble went rattling down the rocks and splashed in the lake and she sank back with a little moan.

"It's—I believe it's my ankle. I'm afraid I've sprained it. Such a great nuisance I've been to you—"

"Don't be idiotic." His voice was gruff. Benny was rather tired of moonlight and the girl's clinging sweetness; besides he was worried. "See if you can stand up. Here—lean on me. Now try."

But she said she could not stand and sobbed. It was then he picked her up, easily enough, and carried her to the bungalow—across the veranda, through the open door, put her down in the midst of the crowd still wrapped in his lounging robe, gazed about somewhat defiantly.

A clamor, Freddie's voice rising above the others: "When did you get to be a telephone call, Ann?" Hanna looking at Ben—at Ann—at Ben again. "This is very imprudent, daughter. I shall expect an explanation!"

Smiles—whispers—eyes shifting. Ann's look seeking Benny, beseeching, tears brimming.

He ran a bewildered hand over his head, made an outraged gesture, mumbled "You know she is all right with me."

The clamor again. Hanna stepped over firmly and in a final, almost threatening way kissed Benny Black, called him "dear boy."

Out of what followed only one thing remained clear in his mind and that was etched in memory as long as he lived. Diana's face, glimpsed as from an intolerable distance. Diana's face, incredulous, frozen, white with scorn.

CHAPTER XVII.

NOTHING to be said between the two friends, Diana and Beatrice, beyond the first stinging outburst from the dark girl, "Oh, Di!"

A toss of the curly black head, a shrug of the slim shoulders. Dab cold cream on a sunburned nose, wipe it away; pick up a comb, put that down again. Thinking—thinking . . .

A deadly stillness all about. Benny Black had held her in his arms, kissed her again and again—and she had thought it love! She had invited his arms, sent out her whole heart to him. And all the while he had been a weak thing, ready to be twined round the clutching finger of a girl like Ann!

Diana felt soiled, abjectly humiliated and ashamed. But this was not the worst; it was the ache of loss, the terrible, throbbing emptiness which, since time began, has laid waste the hearts of women with love gone from their lives.

Beatrice sat upon the bed, wide-eyed with sympathy when a tap sounded at the door and Ann's voice asked coyly if she might come in. No answer, but she came anyway, smiling and triumphant, still with Benny's robe about her shoulders. She walked over to the dressing table and stood beside Diana and her little hands gathered up the sleeves of the robe—and crossed them over her flat breast quite as if the boy's arms were in them. With caressing pats she fondled the monogram on the pocket, sniffing softly, wistfully, as if with sweet memories.

"Isn't it too wonderful?" she breathed. "I just had to share this happiness, dearest Diana. He adores me so!"

Blazing with indignation, Beatrice grunted "Humph!" and Diana rose abruptly, knocking over a bottle of perfume. Her rage was controlled quickly, however. Yawning, she drawled, "Well, time for sleep," and jumped into one of the beds, where she lay as if very drowsy, her eyes closed.

"It is late," cooed Ann, going slowly toward the door. She hesitated there, stroking the monogram, at the very point of confidences it seemed. But she appeared to change her mind, and with a last gathering of the sleeves about herself waved a blithe goodnight as Diana's hand went up to the light, plunging the room into darkness.

Lying there in a dazed misery, the girl did not know that Benny spent the hours tramping about the grounds, seeing her face, shocked and disdainful, as it had been in the instant after Hanna kissed him. That look had taken something from him that he never would regain; something of self-respect, some high point of youth.

Vacation's End -:- By Fannie Darrell

"OH, IT'S been such a wonderful time, Al, dear, and now to think it's all over! Oh, how I hate to go back to that dull old office again! But you will write? And you won't forget me? And you promise to call me as soon as you come to town? I'll be so lonesome for you and just waiting until I hear from you."

Tears and regrets and promises—all made 'neath the spell of rose-colored vacation days. And when the city looms in the offing and old familiar faces come in view—vacation days are talked over and the wonderful times discussed—and then—promptly forgotten and plans made for the next one.

Dear days of romance, vacation days. And sometimes they bring the real romance to loving hearts. Who knows how yours will turn out?

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Philip Veritzen Reveals His Royal Ancestry to Madge

PHILIP VERITZEN'S keen eyes were fixed upon me quizzically as I parried the personal note in his little speech with the warning against delay in his plans for guarding Princess Olina of Transvania. When I finished he laughed softly but with patent malicious enjoyment of the confusion I could not hide from him.

"You are too transparent to essay Machiavellian roles," he told me. "But I'll respect for the present your desire to have me avoid all references to yourself as I tell you this story of my youth. But don't worry about the Princess. You tell me there are plenty of people there now, and there really is no fear of daylight marauders. And when darkness comes, Noel, Otto and I will be outside her door."

There was just a touch of pomposity in his manner, an intangible reminder that he neither needed nor wished advice concerning his plans. It was a mannerism I had seen before, one which everyone connected with him professionally knew well. With the feeling that my employer was looking at me as he might at some off specimen of beetle impaled for his inspection, I tried to keep my face free of any other emotion than eager interest in his story.

"I have told you that I was born in Transvania," Mr. Veritzen began with a hesitation utterly foreign to him, "but what I never have told anyone before is that because of the 'bar sinister' I am a cousin twice removed of the present King of Transvania."

Despite my resolution to be poised and silent, a little exclamation of stark amazement escaped from me. This, then, was the explanation of the many seemingly inexplainable contradictions in the man, as if two natures warred within him, and of the indefinable air of one "born to the purple," which he wore whether consciously or unconsciously, I could not even determine.

"You understand me better now," Mr. Veritzen said softly. "I think your comprehension would be even better if you could have known my strange boyhood with its cruel heritage.

"My grandfather and the present king of Transvania's grandsire were brothers," he went on after a pause. "But my grandmother was the daughter of a merchant, well-to-do, but as utterly outside the pale of a royal marriage connection as a peasant would have been."

His lips twisted grimly upon the word "peasant," and I realized that the man's whole nature was consumed with resentment against the cards Fate had dealt him in the matter of ancestry.

"She was remarkably beautiful, my grandmother, I have been told, and she held my royal grandfather's allegiance through all his life, though he married a member of another royal house and had several other children besides the son who was the only child of my beautiful grandmother. The boy did not inherit his mother's looks, however, but was so much like his father and especially so closely resembled his cousin, the present King's father, that the old King, my grandfather's brother, insisted that my grandmother and her son be sent to a distant province and kept there. Several years after my grandfather died my grandmother married a man who long had loved her, and who formally adopted her nameless boy and gave him his name of Veritzen. So at least I have the legal right to that name.

"My father, Noel Veritzen—I gave my own boy his name—never troubled the court, though he was possessed of some wealth and married the daughter of one of the noble families of Transvania. He died when I was a little chap, and fortunately for my mother's desire to see the capital of her country and to mingle with her own people, I resembled her, bearing no embarrassing likeness to the men of the royal family. So she came to the captial, and after completing my schooling and my military service, I was assigned, through the influence of one of my mother's friends, to special duty at the court. It was the occasion of the first visit to the court of the beautiful young princess who was later to become the present Queen of Transvania. And I, like the hot-headed romantic young fool that I was, fell desperately in love with her."

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U. S. Senator from New York

Let Us All Become Followers of "Wohelo"

I WAS sorry to read of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Vetter Gulick, founder of the Camp Fire Girls. In the field of outdoor activities for girls this noble woman was easily the leader. Through her, work, health and vigor were given to thousands of American girls. Many a young mother of today can call her blessed.

DR. COPELAND

Years ago it was my privilege to visit the famous camp on Lake Sebago in Maine. If I remember correctly the odd name of "Camp Wohelo" was given this interesting gathering place of girls and young women. After the death of Dr. Luther Gulick, Mrs. Gulick gave the name of her husband to the Camp Fire center.

You will be interested to know the meaning of "Wohelo." It sums up a beautiful philosophy of life. The word was coined from the first two letters of work, health and love—Wo-he-lo. So work, health and love are the aspirations and endeavor of the Camp Fire Girls.

Really, what would life be worth without work, health and love? They are at the very foundation of happiness, usefulness and long life.

There can be no health without work. There can be no perfection without willingness to work for those who should be near and dear to us.

Indeed, the whole philosophy of a perfect life is summed up in Mrs. Gulick's three words, abbreviated to make this new and musical word—Wohelo. I am sure the Camp Fire Girls and their founders would not object if all the rest of us became followers of a cult devoted to the principles of Wohelo.

Differ as health authorities may regarding almost everything else all agree that the outdoor life is essential to health and length of days. Camp life for boys and girls is one of the promising practices of the day. It should be encouraged. For men and women, too, the sunshine and fresh air are essential.

Fortunately, we need not have money to pay for camp equipment or the expense of attending a formal camp. We have the makings in the door yard of every home, no matter how humble. We can have work and health and love, no matter where Fate has placed us. Let us accept Wohelo as our motto.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, September 22

THE stellar mutations for this day point to certain jeopardies to those in the employment of others, but decidedly enhance the interests of those disposed to launch forth on their own high adventures. These may have a political objective or may relate to understandings with trusts, "rings" or secret societies, and likewise these may be subject to sudden reverses or downfalls, or may develop situations of an irregular or erratic complexion.

Those whose birthday it is are assured an affiliation with some secret order, corporation or combination which will bring benefits and advancement during the year. But this may be attended by some irregularities or a sudden reversal which may endanger the position and the employment unless precaution be observed.

A child born on this day may reach position in the limelight through diplomacy or intrigue, but will be subject to sudden reversals and loss of employment.

The man who by his labor gets his bread in independent state, himself can fix or change his Fate. PRIOR.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN by HELEN ROWLAND

THE DARK AGE OF WOMAN

"IS THERE a life after forty?" That is the tormenting question which faces every modern woman, just as she might be relaxing comfortably and happily into the feather-bed existence of placid middle age.

Whether to "join the flappers and see the world"—or to stick to her own generation, and keep the home biscuits burning!

* * *

Whether to bob and henna her hair, have a face-lift and defy old Father Time—or to grow frankly and gracefully gray and accept her chins with placid equanimity.

HELEN ROWLAND

Whether to go in for "tennis dresses," knee exposure, and baby-colors, and run the risk of being "ridiculous." Or to cling to her corsets, insist upon a "respectable" length to her skirts—and run the risk of being called a flat-tire or an antique.

Whether to go with her daughter to the "gym" and run the chance of misplacing her vertebrae and straining her heart, with swimming and handball—or to sit on the sidelines with the rocking chair brigade and run the risk of MISSING something.

Whether to wear shorts and "novelty" bathing suits and show the world that she still has a figure—or to slip quietly into modest black taffeta and glide unobtrusively into the water when nobody is looking.

Whether to keep up with her husband's stenographer, and flash in and out of the office in all her war-paint and her briefest creations, just to show them that she's still on the job and NOT on the shelf. Or to close her eyes comfortably and "let John have his little fling," while she devotes herself to the children, cards, clubs or the classics.

Whether to dance around with a boy half her age and run the risk of making a fool of herself—or to sit home and hang onto her dignity, while she wonders if her husband is out sowing his last handful of wild oats.

Whether to learn the new steps, try to smoke a cigaret with nonchalance, submit to the new impertinences of a "fresh" generation and be called a "good old sport." Or to heed the doctors, listen to her pre-war conscience, and go to bed at a sensible hour, while OTHER women make wrecks of themselves!

Ah, yes! The Golden Forties were a lot easier to face, when a woman could "settle down" and be her AGE, and enjoy youth's afterglow. But now that she has to decide whether to climb on the band-wagon with the "live ones," or to sit back in the grandstand and watch the parade go by, Middle Age has become the DARKEST AGE of woman!

* * *

There IS a life, after forty—a wonderful, beautiful exhilarating life—but it doesn't begin until a woman has stopped struggling for Imitation Youth, and FOUND herself!

Vivid Personalities Fade Before "Just Sweet" Girls, Say Fay King

By FAY KING

VIVID personalities are often envied by those known among their friends as "just a sweet girl!" But just being sweet, with a restful charm that is unchanging, is the very nicest and most satisfying personality a girl could wish to have.

It is the essence of simplicity, sympathy, understanding and gentleness, and will outlast all the "pep" and cleverness and vivid personalities in the world. There are many persons who possess arresting personalities that do fascinate one for a brief time. But they grow tiresome and monotonous when one must live with them.

They are apt to be moody and erratic and too much temperament is often purely uncontrolled temper. Unusual personalities are like passing fads. The lasting qualities are to be sincere, unaffected and sweet.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Two Important Weddings of Interest to Pittsburgh Social World Have Been Announced for October

THESE last spirit-depressing days haven't inspired one with hope for a brilliant autumn, have they? But they just couldn't last forever, as you see, and Indian summer is yet to come! Anyway, if September has been weeping cold, drizzly tears, I do hope October will be more cheerful, and give us some of its legendary bright blue weather. And some weddings planned for October are interesting enough to make anyone, even the misanthropic weather, feel in a social mood.

I've just heard of two wedding dates, both for October, that a lot of folks are going to be most interested in.

ALICE WALTON CHILDS, daughter of the James H. Childs, of Albemarle avenue, has named Thursday, October 24, as the date for her marriage to Oliver P. Nicola, Jr., son of the Oliver P. Nicolas, of the Schenley apartments. Doesn't that sound like an important event for the autumn social season?

Alice is a popular member of the younger set, and came out, I believe, several seasons ago.

AND the second October wedding of social import will not take place in Pittsburgh, but in Lake George, New York. On Saturday, October 6, Hazelhurst Plant McCaw, daughter of the Wallace Eugene McCaws, of Fifth avenue, New York, and Lake George, will become the bride of William M. McEldowney, son of the A. W. McEldowneys, of Westminster place. The wedding will be small.

Of course his parents will go on for the wedding, and following a wedding trip he will bring his bride to Pittsburgh. They will live, I hear, on Beeler street.

Mr. McEldowney did his preparatory work at the Taft School, and later went to Princeton. Hazelhurst is a Smith College girl.

ONE'S own fireplace sounds lots more attractive right now, doesn't it, than the most alluring summer resort. Yet there are some folks who are still "resorting."

Down at White Sulphur Springs entertaining is as gay as ever. Of course White Sulphur Springs has had, for a long time, an in-between-season vogue. At a dinner given in the Tudor room of the Greenbrier early this week by the Louis G. Morrows, the George W. Crawfords, Mrs. Robert N. Warmack, of St. Louis, Mrs. Crawford's mother, and the Walter G. Morelands were included among the guests.

THE Ambassador Hotel in New York has seen a number of society folks from Pittsburgh during the last few days. Mrs. George L. Collord and her daughter Laura and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan and their daughter, Peggy, have been there for several days.

MISS MARGARET LOUISE ECKHARDT, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eckhardt, of Morewood avenue, has chosen October 13 as the date for her marriage to Carl H. Reker, of Cleveland.

TUESDAY is the date selected by Miss Mary Elnora Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beck, of Lytton avenue, for her marriage to James William Cannon, son of James H. Cannon, of Oakmont. The ceremony will be performed in St. Paul's Cathedral.

WILLIAM JOSEPH BURNS, of Lincoln avenue, Crafton, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Gertrude Patterson Burns, and Charles Dominic Hulsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dom Hulsman, of Belvedere street, Crafton, which was solemnized Tuesday in St. Philip's Catholic Church.

SCHENLEY COURT, No. 34, Order of the Amaranth, will hold a card party Monday night in Serbian Hall, Fifth avenue. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Eleanor Till, Mrs. Miriam Smith, Mrs. Sophia Hirschmann and Mrs. Elizabeth Gill.

THE marriage of Miss Ella A. Haw, of Canonsburg, and Francis Hamill, of the North Side, was solemnized Tuesday morning in St. Agnes' Catholic Church. The bride wore white taffeta with a white picture hat and carried a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Edward McKenna, who will be remembered as Miss Agatha McGaffin, of Brookline, was matron of honor, wearing yellow georgette with a yellow lace hat and carrying a Dresden bouquet. Edward Radovic, of the North Side, was best man. A breakfast in the home of the bridegroom's parents followed the ceremony. After a southern motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Hamill will be at home in Brentwood.

DR. AND MRS. NELSON CLARK, of the Emerson Apartments, have just returned home from a motor trip to Canada and the seashore. Mrs. Clark spent several weeks visiting in Ohio before she and Dr. Clark left for Canada.

MRS. IDA HOWDER HENDRICKSON, of Semple street, Oakland, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Gladys Pauline Hendrickson, and Arthur Collins Skinkle, of Coraopolis, which was solemnized September 1 in Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Cleveland, by the Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall.

THE marriage of Miss Jane Virginia Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hogan, of Trafford City, and Glenn C. Baker, of Jeannette, was solemnized September 12 in St. Regis' Catholic Church, Trafford City, by the Rev. Timothy McCabe. Miss Alice Hogan was her sister's maid of honor and Charles Baker was his brother's best man. The ushers were Francis D. Hogan and Thomas W. Hogan, brothers of the bride. Mrs. Joseph Beck sang and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Walter Berg, pianist; Miss Grace Lovett, organist, and Guy Denado, violinist. A breakfast in the Hogan home followed the ceremony. After a Southern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Baker will be at home in Trafford City.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES W. HUTCHINSON, of Susquehanna street, Wilkinsburg, are visiting friends at Chambersburg, Pa., Ocean Grove, N. J., and other Eastern cities.

MISS CORA HELEN COOLIDGE, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, entertained the faculty and their friends at tea in her home yesterday afternoon. The first social event of the year for the students will be the welcoming party for new students to be held tonight in the assembly hall. This is an annual affair sponsored by the Y. W. C. A.

* * *

MRS. W. S. EKEY, of Savannah avenue, Edgewood, entertained at dinner last night in honor of the eighteenth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Olive Ekey. Covers were laid for eight.

THE marriage of Miss Marion G. Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland, of Center avenue, Emsworth, and George M. Little, son of Mrs. Mary Little, of Emsworth, was solemnized Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock in the home of the Rev. Dr. J. W. Springer, of the Emsworth United Presbyterian Church. Just members of the families were present. After an Eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Little will be at home in Center avenue, Emsworth.

A visit to Beechwood School with a drama program, and the annual luncheon, the former in April and the latter in June, and a February program by the literary and music sections will lend diversity to the year.

OCTOBER 13 is set by the Woman's City Club for its reception to the new president, Mrs. Henry C. McEldowney. On October 21 the first of the season's Sunday afternoon teas will be given. General activities begin tomorrow with the luncheon for and talk by Walter Prichard Eaton.

THE Turtle Creek Woman's Club is observing president's day this afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. The program season is to be formally opened on October 5 at the home of Mrs. W. C. 3 SOUTH HILLS STILLS SEIZED IN DRY RAIDS

Three stills and a quantity of homebrew were found by prohibition agents yesterday when they raided four homes in the South Hills section. One still was found in a dwelling in Willock road, Brentwood, and in another house nearby, 55 pints of homebrew and a barrel of brandy were discovered. Residences in Stewart's lane, Carrick and in Arlington avenue, yielded a small quantity of moonshine and stills of 10-gallon capacity.

Patrons were drinking whisky in a barroom at 1552 Madison avenue, last night, the agents said, when they entered the premises.

They reported seizing a large quantity of moonshine and arresting John Dolinski, 33.

Anchovy and Olive Canapes.
Spiced Beef Tenderloin.
Potato Balls. Spinach.
Combination Salad.
Butterscotch Pie.

FOR the canapes, mix boned anchovies with yolks of hard-cooked eggs, butter, lemon and onion juice, Worcestershire sauce, and paprika to form a paste. Spread on thinly cut rounds of buttered toast. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

To prepare the spiced beef tenderloin, melt two tablespoons butter, chop an onion fine, and melt it in butter. Add four whole peppers, one cup tomatoes, one-half cup of water, one tablespoon vinegar, and one teaspoon ginger, and let come to a boil. Season the beef tenderloin with salt and pepper, flour it, and brown quickly in hot fat. Then pour the hot sauce over the meat and let it roast slowly, basting frequently, for 25 minutes. Remove from the oven, strain the gravy and, if desired, add four tablespoons Sherry flavoring. Cut the meat into slices and return it to the gravy, allowing it to simmer until ready to use.

WITH a vegetable scoop, cut balls from raw potatoes to make one quart. Cook in boiling water until tender, and drain. Add to the potatoes, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons finely chopped parsley, and two tablespoons butter. Stir lightly so that all the po-and what Mrs. Johnston found out about the taste of cooking fats!

"WHEN I first saw the Crisco advertisement which said, 'Taste your Cooking Fat,'" wrote Mrs. W. L. Johnston, "I, being a woman and curious, opened the Crisco can and took a very little upon a spoon. I received such a surprise—and such a pleasant one! No wonder my biscuits, pies and cakes are so much better since I have been using this pleasant, sweet tasting shortening, Crisco."

Have you yourself ever tasted Crisco? Put a little Crisco on the tip of a spoon; on the tip of another a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, then the other fat. Isn't the difference astonishing?

Crisco will make just as much improvement in your cooking results as its sweet, fresh taste would lead you to expect. Just try the recipes given below and you'll know exactly what we mean.

FOR ROLLED BISCUITS: form dough into shape, roll ½ inch thick, cut. For scone-shaped biscuits, cut squares, then diagonally in half. Brush top of biscuits with melted Crisco or milk. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 12 biscuits.

To use buttermilk or sour milk beat in ¼ teaspoon soda for each cup of milk. (If milk is very thick, use a little more milk.) Use same amount of baking powder and follow method for either "drop" or "rolled" biscuits.

tatoes are seasoned and serve at once.

You may use any combination of vegetables for the salad, such as celery, radishes, tomatoes on lettuce, and, if you like, Spanish onions.

For the butterscotch pie, make a crust as follows: Sift together one teaspoon salt and two cups flour. Cut three-quarter cup of fat in the flour, and add just enough ice water to hold the mixture without being sticky. Roll from center out. This will make double crusts for one pie or two pie shells.

CHICKEN WITH PEPPERS—Dismember a chicken. It is best to serve when cut up in small joints. Mince a clove of garlic, a tablespoonful of onion, a slice of bacon and add two tablespoonfuls of butter and three of olive oil. Cut six green peppers in lengthwise sections, four or five to the pepper. Fry the peppers and chicken in the drippings until well seared, add one-half cup of strained tomatoes and cover the pan closely. Allow to simmer until the chicken is tender, which should not be more than 30 minutes if the chicken is a young one. This is delicious served with buttered noodles.

PURE SWEETNESS

'Extra Health'

put it into every-day cookery this easy, tempting way

"ADD A HANDFUL OF HEALTH TO THE RECIPE" AND MAKE MANY TASTY DISHES EXTRA WHOLESOME

CRISP brown waffles, buttered ready for the syrup . . . hot muffins . . . delicious puddings . . . cookies that fairly crackle with crispness—how good these all are when you make them in your own kitchen!

Yet those muffins, the waffles—for that matter, practically all of the dishes you make with white flour, contain little or no "bulk" so necessary to health.

Modern diet may be all too lacking in fiber. Milk, eggs, meat, cheese, butter, sugar and fats—none of these contain bulk. And without bulky fiber to absorb moisture and assist the large intestines in eliminating wastes—"body toxins" may be retained for many more hours than natural.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds healthful bulk in many tempting ways. Just add a cupful to the batter next time you bake muffins, and lo and behold, they're bran muffins. Put ALL-BRAN in dressings, in puddings. Add a handful to the griddle cakes. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in countless dishes—for the health it brings.

In the condition of constipation poisons pour back into the blood stream. The skin turns muddy. Tongues gray and eyes lose their sparkle. Headaches and nervousness are frequent. Soon general resistance is so lowered as to leave the system susceptible to many diseases.

Cathartics are only an emergency measure. If habitually used, they contribute to chronic constipation. The one natural solution is to supply bulk to the diet. By eating a healthful bran cereal daily, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

And ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran—is equally effective for health, both when eaten as a cereal and when used in cookery dishes. Indeed, its own nut-like flavor increases the tastiness of foods.

Three special ALL-BRAN health recipes are printed here. Cut them out and paste in your scrap-book. Write the Home Economics Dept. of the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich., for other recipes.

Begin this way of adding healthful bran to menus and see what a difference it quickly makes in the welfare of all the family. Be sure you use genuine Kellogg's though. Doctors recommend it. They know that ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities because it is 100% bran. That part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases, with every meal). Delicious with fruits or honey added.

ALL-BRAN is inexpensive. Sold by all grocers. One natural health food—to serve either as a cereal, or to use in many appetizing dishes. . . . Sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If ALL-BRAN does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

"Extra health"—it's a gift you can bring from the kitchen to those who sit at your table. That pays its own dividends in happiness, welfare and success.

THESE RECIPES ARE GROUPED TOGETHER FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

ALL-BRAN Waffles

1¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 2 eggs, 1¼ cup milk, 4 tablespoons melted shortening.

Sift the flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder together; add the ALL-BRAN, the well-beaten egg, milk, and melted shortening. Beat well. Bake in hot waffle iron. Delicious served with honey.

ALL-BRAN Muffins

2 tablespoonfuls shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. To creamed mixture add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, and bake in moderate oven (370° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: 12 muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit ½ teaspoon of soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

ALL-BRAN Honey Pudding

¼ cup butter, 2/3 cup honey, ½ cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup puffed raisins, ½ cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and honey; add milk and well-beaten egg and floured raisins. Then add ALL-BRAN and flour sifted with soda and salt. Put in greased mold and steam two hours. Serve with sauce.

7-STORY LEAP ENDS LOVE TRAGEDY OF JILTED CLOWN

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The love theme of Pagliacci wound itself about Tony Peri, the 60-year-old clown who leaped seven stories to his death yesterday.

Peri, years ago, was a good clown and "weight" man. He played "double" with his wife, and their earnings ran up to $300 a week—not a lot as stage pay goes, but it satisfied the Peris.

One day Mrs. Peri ran away with a banjo player. Peri, a broken-hearted Pagliacci, continued to clown. The golden weeks of $300 pay envelopes turned to weeks with no pay envelopes at all. In recent months Peri has been clowning with wagon shows and carnivals.

He finished his last engagement two days ago. He went back yesterday to the booking agents, who told him there was no more work in sight. Peri walked to a window and leaped out.

FOUR SENT TO PRISON FOR FATAL SMUGGLING

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Four Portuguese seamen convicted in connection with deaths of seven stowaways who were killed by fumigating gas fumes in the hold of the Steel Inventor here on August 24, are under sentence of eight years each in the Atlanta Penitentiary. The seamen, Samuel Sanchez, Ensnio Garcia, Jose Dosil and Edmundo Cunna, were charged with smuggling 16 aliens into this country from South America, and with being in a measure responsible for the deaths of seven of the stowaways.

Breathless youngsters bounding in from school. What healthy appetites they have! By all means give them plenty of nourishing food to fill that between-meal "emptiness." Just be sure of one thing . . . . that the food you give them is thoroughly fresh and wholesome. And you can't be absolutely sure unless you have scientifically correct refrigeration.

Milk and meat, fruits and vegetables must be kept at a temperature below 50 degrees at all times if you are to check the growth of bacteria. The General Electric Refrigerator maintains a constant, dry cold, several safe degrees below 50—under all conditions.

This "years ahead" refrigerator is different from all others. It is automatic—surprisingly quiet. All its mechanism is sealed in an air-tight steel casing, so that you never even have to oil it. It makes plenty of ice and uses remarkably little current.

The cabinets stand well above the floor on sturdy legs, with ample broom-room underneath. The top-coils radiate a rising current of air which prevents dust from settling. Come in and see the wide range of models. We will arrange for convenient deferred payments if you wish.

HARD WATER + = SOFT WATER PLUS MEL'O MAKES

THIS is soft water. Grandpa caught it in a rain barrel. Grandma washed the clothes in it. My! How white the clothes were in the 80's! How easy they were to wash! And how smooth and white her hands were!

This is hard water. City water. It comes out of a faucet. It takes a lot of soap to make a good lather. Even then it leaves a ring around the bathtub, the dishpan, the washbowl. The clothes look grayish white. Mother would like to use soft water for washing clothes, dishes, faces, hands, the children. But there isn't any soft water—rain water—any more. This is 1928.

Mother knows the virtues of soft water. She tries to get it by using ammonia, borax and sal soda. These partially soften water. They are all good in their way. But it takes heaps and the water isn't really soft.

This is a package of Melo. It softens water. Now, mother can put a teaspoonful of Melo in the dishpan, two tablespoonfuls in the washtubs, two tablespoonfuls in the bathtub, and she has soft water—like rain water. Dirty, scummy rings don't form in the bathtub or washbowl. No greasy feel to the dish water. The clothes are snowy white. Her hands are smooth and white and soft.

Melo saves ⅓ to ½ the amount of soap. Saves time in washing dishes, clothes, floors, everything. Keep a package of Melo in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. Get it at your grocer's.

The water in Pittsburgh is 5 times as hard as it should be. Two tablespoonfuls of Melo will soften a bathtub full of water. Two tablespoonfuls in the washtubs. One teaspoonful in the dishpan.

WRITE ADS WIN PRIZES

Watch for Further Announcement Tomorrow

AN ADVERTISEMENT is a message directed to reach readers. These messages are written by men and women who specialize in this work. These men and women are paid according to their ability in getting their messages read by the public.

In this campaign we reverse the picture by asking the public to write the ads and the experienced advertising men and women will act as judges.

The viewpoint of a customer is sometimes worth more than the viewpoint of an advertiser. For this reason the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and a number of the leading firms of the city are co-operating in an effort to interest the public in this novel way of getting the viewpoint of the reader instead of the advertiser. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will give $15,000 in cash and prizes for the best ads received.

The Sun-Telegraph-Zain Ad-Test Will Appeal to All!

Prizes Are Divided Into Three Groups

1—One thousand dollars ($1,000) in cash will be given for the best ad written during the entire campaign.

2—One hundred dollars ($100.00) in cash will be given each week for six weeks for the best ad written each week during the campaign.

3—Five merchandise prizes will be given each week for six weeks for the five best ads written about each participating firm.

Two reasons why this contest should appeal to you:

1st.—You will be interested to see what kind of an ad you can write, and the fun you will get by writing these ads, letters or ideas.

2d.—$15,000 in cash and merchandise prizes certainly provides a powerful incentive to demonstrate your skill. Try and see what prizes you can win. It will not cost you anything to compete for the prizes.

You might say: "I never wrote an ad and do not know anything about advertising, and for that reason I will not have a chance to win." That is absolutely wrong. If you did know advertising and you had written advertising before and you were a professional advertising man or woman, you would not be allowed to compete. It is the people like you who are invited to enter this contest and win prizes.

Everyone Can Write Ads

If you can write a letter you can write an ad. Everyone can write letters, so everyone can write ads. The kind of ads we want are very simple to write. This is all you have to do:

For instance, take a piece of paper and a pencil and write an ad for the United Laundries. Jot down the reasons you would give to familiarize housewives with their various classes of laundry service. Tell in your own words the advantages of making use of one or more of these classes of service and you will find yourself writing ads for this concern and competing for the $15,000 in prizes—that's how easy it is.

Now take another piece of paper and write an ad for Terheyden Co., 530 Smithfield St. What more fascinating subject to write about than Jewelry?—and there is no finer collection and display of jewelry in this section, from the inexpensive novelty pieces to the most precious gems in the most elaborate settings than will be found at Terheyden's. A glance at the windows of this store, or better still a visit inside, will furnish anyone with a fund of "ad ideas."

Printing sounds like a rather prosaic subject to write about, but it is surprising how really interesting it can be. From the time the hand press was used by Benjamin Franklin to the modern, complex equipment of today, the art of printing has made remarkable strides. Too, the Stevenson and Foster Company starting in a humble way, has constantly kept pace with this city's growth and requirements and today is recognized as one of the foremost printing plants in the country, both as to size and diversity. Printing, Lithography and Steel and Copper Plate Engraving are combined under one roof.

To round out the service rendered to its commercial, advertising and social customers, this concern also maintains a Stationery Department. Drop in their store, you will find many interesting facts that will be helpful to you in writing prize-winning ads.

Start Writing Ads Sunday

Your ad may be a letter, slogan, phrase—anything you write about a firm or a product will constitute an ad. The final announcement with rules, names and addresses of firms about whom you are to write, will appear Sunday in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Then write your name and address on the back of the sheets, then take another concern and write the best idea you can about it, and so on until you have written about every one you care to or all the advertisers in the list (as the more you write about, the more chances you have to win the prizes). Send these ads to the Zain-Ad-Writing Test, care of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and you will be competing for the prizes given for these advertisers. The names of the winners will be announced each period.

Hollywood News Concerning Stars and Studios

Chaplin's Leading Woman Draws Pay Check Regularly But Is Doing No Acting Now

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.

MYRNA KENNEDY, flaming-haired film actress, is in as odd a position as any player in the movies. Myrna, whose histrionic genius is fiery as her tresses, has been drawing salary each week for three years. But during that time she has made but one picture. Myrna, you know, is under contract to Charlie Chaplin, and Charlie hasn't made a film other than "The Circus" during that time. Myrna's work in that film seemed to assure of her great future successes. But she hasn't been on the screen since.

Everyone took it for granted that she would be Charlie's lead in "City Lights," his new photoplay. But now there seems to be some doubt of it. So much doubt, in fact, that Myrna was almost farmed out for the "Love Interest" in Paramount's "The Canary Murder Case," a part which will be played by Jean Arthur. It seems that the heroine of "City Lights" is a blind girl, and that a girl with pale blue eyes would film better as the sightless ingenue. And Myrna's expressionful eyes don't fill this bill at all. Nothing definite has been decided.

Well, our new boy friend, Robert Castle, Paramount's latest import, isn't going to play opposite Clara Bow after all. At least not for his first bow to the American film public. Here's the way it works out. Robert was to play with Clara. And Neil Hamilton was to be Bebe Daniel's hero in her next picture, a newspaper story. But the folks on the Lasky lot got to thinking it over, and now Robert is scheduled to appear with Bebe, while Neil Hamilton is to be opposite Clara in "Three Week Ends."

Lois Wilson gave a buffet supper the other evening to a few of her many friends. Although she didn't say so, the affair might well have been a celebration of Lois' signing with Warner Brothers. Her local stage experience demonstrated vocal qualities desirable for the talkies, and the Warners are out after all the available talent for their audible photodramas. Lois and Marion Davies are the two Hollywood stars whom everybody seems to be "crazy about." Usually there is a dissenting voice when someone "raves" over a star, but in these two cases cheers are always unanimous.

Corinne Griffith is taking a New York vacation. During her absence the treatment of her next story, "Saturday's Children," will be completed and her return will find everything in readiness to begin production. James Berde, a youngster who appears in "The Divine Lady," may be Corinne's new leading man. The big part lies between James and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. If "Doug" gets the role, James will at least get the second best part. He is under personal contract to Corinne.

I understand that Conrad Nagel will play opposite Norma Shearer in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." This is the role that was enacted by Roland Young in the Broadway stage success, and the one which was to have ben played on the screen by John, of the Barrymores. Although it hasn't been officially announced that "Mrs. Cheyney" is to be a talker, as would become her sex, the casting of Nagel indicates that the stage dialog will be heard in the picture. Nagel is one of Hollywood's official masters of ceremonies. Whenever there is any speaking to be done, Conrad is the boy who does the spouting. And when the yellies came along, he stepped right into a prominent position with the first sound pictures to be made. At present he is the most experienced talkie player in cinemaland.

Tom Mix is limping around on a cane as a result of torn leg ligaments suffered in one of the daring stunts performed for his current photoplay. Tom declares the hurt is nothing serious, but that he decided to be "temperamental" like other movie actors, and lay off for a day or two. Tom, by the way, seems more and more inclined to be fed up on the endless routine of making photoplays. He had a sort of far-away look in his eye when he told me that his pal, George Miller, of the far-famed "101 Ranch" had offered to sell him the "101" show. Wouldn't be surprised if Tom bought it yet, and went trouping around the country with "Tony."

Charlie Murray, the First National comedian, has signed up for a 14-weeks' vode tour. Charlie doesn't intend to quit the films, Charlie, you know, was on the boards for years before he even knew there were movies.

Carmel Myers surprised all her friends not long ago by appearing as a redhead. It was so long since she had let her tresses "go back" that everyone had forgotten that her locks are naturally titian in hue. And the funny part is that the very first part she plays after the change requires her to cover the new glory with a silver wig. Carmel is in the film Fred Niblo is directing. Originally "Adrienne Lecouvreur," there are now several tentative titles, none of which has been definitely selected.

Metro is going to great lengths to put sound and dialog in "The Bellamy Trial." The entire cast has been reassembled for the talking sequences. Leatrice Joy, star of the film, has displayed a voice which reproduces in a sensational manner.

PENN FITTED FOR SOUND

Loew's Penn announces that sound and talking pictures will be presented there, beginning Monday, with the offering of Emil Jannings, in "The Patriot," as the screen feature, with sound effects. The Penn has been wired and equipped to present Fox-Movietone, Vitaphone and all the other leading sound and talking picture productions. The inauguration of the sound pictures will not interfere with its other presentation policies on the screen, stage or its musical offerings. This makes both Loew houses here sound equipped. The Aldine opened the new season under an exclusive sound and picture presentation policy. The Penn, however, will continue to present the silent type of picture in conjunction with the talkie kind.

FAMILY IN PICTURES

The Gleason family has been swept into the movies by the "talkies." James Gleason, actor and playwright; Mrs. Gleason and their son are to appear in a film version of the Gleason play, "Shannons of Broadway."

SHOW TICKETS FREE

The distribution of 25 baskets containing foods and theater tickets is a feature of each session of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Free Cooking School in the Soldiers' Memorial, Oakland. In addition to nationally advertised food products each basket contains two tickets of admission to the Stanley Theater next week. The attractions include Dorothy Mackaill on the screen in "The Whip," a sound picture, and Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield, stars of vaudeville and musical comedies, including "No, No, Nanette," on the stage.

"MARCO" HERE NEXT WEEK

"Marco Millions," by Eugene O'Neill, is to be the first production of the New York Theater Guild in the Nixon, opening the Guild season in Pittsburgh Monday evening. Seats are now on sale.

"Good News," Schwab and Mandel's musical comedy success, coming next week to the Alvin, is a college play, and there are, of course, all varieties of students, from the very fresh freshmen to the staid seniors. And there is the usual football game, which the hero doesn't win. Matinees are listed for Wednesday and Saturday.

EATON LECTURE HERE TONIGHT

Walter Prichard Eaton, theatrical critic, author and lecturer, will deliver an address at 8 o'clock tonight in Carnegie Lecture Hall on "Going to Theater in America." Mr. Eaton will talk on a variety of subjects connected with present-day plays and the state of transition of the American stage of today.

Mr. Eaton formerly was dramatic critic of the New York Sun, and later taught dramatic criticism at Columbia University.

He is author of many books on the theater and on nature.

His lecture is under the auspices of the Drama League of Pittsburgh and admission is free to the public.

Technicality Costs Contractor Job; County $550

Failure of M. G. Moshithes to sign his name on a bid for razing Bull Creek bridge, cost him the contract. The oversight also cost the county $550.

When bids were opened yesterday it was found that Moshithes was low bidder at $2,640. The state competitive act compels all concerns submitting bids for county contracts to sign each bid submitted. This the Moshithes firm neglected to do. The next low bidder was Ortall Contracting Company. Its bid was $3,190.

County Commissioners threw out the low bidder and awarded the contract to Ortall Company at a loss to the county of $550.

GIANT NEW ZEPPELIN TAKES 90 ON TRIAL TRIP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 21.—(A.P.)—The new giant dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, completed what was regarded as its first real test flight yesterday when with 90 persons aboard it covered a distance of over 1,000 kilometers in 9½ hours.

After taking off from Friedrichshafen at 8 a. m. it flew across Lake Constance at an elevation of 200 meters. An hour after its takeoff it flew over Zurich, Switzerland, continuing to Basel, and thence down the Rhine, where it was the subject of the greatest interest at the French occupation points. Over the Neckar Valley the ship attained its highest elevation of 1,700 meters.

The big Zeppelin flew homeward across Wurttemberg, passing the ancestral medieval castle of the Hohenzollerns. The flight to Stuttgart was interrupted by a circle over the grave of Count Zeppelin. Then, flying before the wind, the dirigible attained a speed of 137 kilometers an hour which, after deducting wind pressure, signified a speed of 128 kilometers.

SOUTH SIDE FACTORY DAMAGED BY FLAMES

Fire of undetermined origin early today caused $2,400 damage to the Lentz Nut and Bolt Factory, 2400 Carson street, South Side. A policeman discovered the blaze and turned in the alarm. The damage for the most part was confined to the building, a two-story structure, nonstop aerial flight across the aged by water, police were told.

Dog Saves Girl From Intruder In Her Home

A drunken Negro who last night entered the home of Mary Kimerlim, 21, of 2520 Forbes street, while the young woman was alone in the house, was frightened away by her dog. The Negro, James Smith, 46, of Rock way, was arrested on a suspicious person charge and lodged in the Oakland Police Station. The girl said that her pet did not touch the Negro but the prisoner told police he had been bitten by the animal. He was treated at the Homeopathic Hospital, police said.

SLEPT IN YARD, HUSBND SAYS

That he was forced to sleep outside of the house on the ground all night, because his wife refused him admission to their home, 141 Lincoln avenue, Millvale, is alleged in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court by John H. Blacksmith, 115½ Forty-second street, against Mrs. Mary A. Blacksmith.

The husband recently filed a libel in divorce action against Mrs. Blacksmith alleging desertion and she asked for a bill of particulars.

Blacksmith says that seven years ago, on August 18, 1921, his wife caused Joseph Seelnacht, then chief of police of Millvale, to arrest him without a warrant and he was sent to the workhouse for 30 days.

When he returned, the wife would not let him in the home but threw a collar and necktie out of the window and told him to go somewhere else, he said.

The couple were married in 1897, or 31 years ago.

No Bids Made on Bridge Lights; Try Again

Unable to secure a bid for supplying iron light brackets for the new Sixth Street Bridge, when bids were advertised August 29, County Commissioners yesterday authorized the bid readvertised.

The estimated cost of the installation of the brackets is $1,680. Director Norman F. Brown, public works department, now that the span is about completed, is anxious to have the lights in place and asked commissioners to readvertise. The span will be dedicated and opened to traffic about the middle of next month.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

IT WILL be a big night for the Irish on the Kodak Front Porch tonight, over WJAS, for the male quartet has accepted an invitation to be present and has signified its intention of singing three old Irish favorites: "Mother Machree," "Irish Love Song" and "Harp That Once Thru Tara's Halls."

Another interesting feature of the program is a violin rendition of Vice President Dowes' "Melody in A," and especially programmed for those who delight in joining in singing with those gathered on the front porch are "Blue Shadows," "Pickin' Cotton," "Half Way to Heaven" and "Say So" from the current Ziegfeld musical show, "Rosalie."

Neal Mowry, tenor of the Beaver United Presbyterian Church, and David Chalmers, organist of the same church, will present a recital of light classical selection tonight at 7 o'clock over WCAE.

A program of seventeenth century music will be presented by Milady's Musicians through KDKA at 8 o'clock. A Mozart number, "Allegro," from "Serenade, Ein Kleine Nachtmusik," played by the orchestra, will open the program. Other orchestra numbers will include the adagio movement from Beethoven's "Septet," Schubert's "Moment Musical" and another excerpt from the aforementioned Mozart composition.

Muriel Wilson, lyric soprano, will sing Thomas Morley's "Now Is the Month of Maying" and "Passing By," by Purcell. Another feature of the program will be a harpsichord solo by Hans Barth, well-known soloist on this instrument.

From the beautiful "Romanza Andaluza" of Pablo Sarasate, played as a violin solo, to a rollicking orchestral arrangement of "Turkey in the Straw" is an unusual contrast to be attempted in the Cities Service Hour broadcast over WCAE, also at 8 o'clock.

Henderson's "Pickin' Cotton" will be sung by the Armstrong Quakers' mixed vocal octet during the KDKA program at 8:30 o'clock. "When Sunset Bids the Day Goodby," del Riego's "Homing," and "Oh, Lucindy," by Deppin, will be other numbers which the Quakers will sing. The Quaker Girl herself will offer "You're in Love," from the musical comedy by that name; and a love song of other years, "In the Gloaming," accompanied by a chorus of her friends.

Instrumental and vocal soloists will be featured during the Wrigley Review at KDKA, at 9 o'clock. Instrumental specialty numbers will include the Entr'acte from Thomas' opera, "Mignon," heard as a banjo solo; Waldteufel's "Espana Waltz," played by an accordion soloist; "Ten Little Miles From Town," by Kahn, heard as a xylophone solo; and "Carmen," by Rose, played by a cornetist. Vocalists will present "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," and other songs. The Bridal Chorus from Cowen's "Rose Maiden" will be heard as a complete ensemble number, with chorus accompaniment.

"Her Steady—Rough and Ready Eddie" is the title of the next offering by Larry Briers and his Tuneful Troupe in the series of musical heart throbs to be broadcast by WCAE at 9:30 o'clock. Again the nature of their selections will reveal the plot of a comic story developed throughout the period.

Another "all star" program will be heard as the weekly offering of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau hour through WCAE at 10 o'clock. The National Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Cesare Sodero; the Grand Opera Quartet, consisting of Genia Zielinska, Devora Nadworney, Giuseppe di Benedetto and Theodore Webb, and George Barrere, world-famed Little Symphony conductor and master flautist, are the featured artists.

The much-liked United Salon Orchestra is to be heard in another of its WJAS programs tonight at 10:30 o'clock. The orchestra has chosen an unusually interesting program. It opens with the "Fra Diavolo" Overture, by Auber, and contains among other numbers the beautiful Kreisler arrangement of the Viennese melody, "The Old Refrain;" Percy Grainger's "Handel in the Strand, and Liszt's "Liebestraum."

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — Y, SEPTEMBER 21, 1928 — THIRTY-FOUR

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

McGraw May Have Traded Pennant Away When He Gave Harper for O'Farrell—Pittsburgh Keeps Slugger in League—Pittsburgher First American on World Swim Body.

CHICKENS come home to roost. Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants may have traded himself out of a pennant when he made what he considered a smart deal on May 10 last in swapping Outfielder George Harper to the Cardinals for Catcher Bob O'Farrell.

George Harper.

For the Giant cast-off yesterday brought woe to his old mates. It was his terrific hitting and his feat of making three home runs in one game that won the first half of the double-header for the Cards, enabling them to break even for the day and retain their pennant lead of two lengths over the New Yorkers. But for Harper, the Giants probably would have won both games and tied St. Louis for first place.

POSSIBLY, the loss of that first game through Harper's individual batting achievements may cost the McGrawites the flag. They have two games more to play with the Redbirds, one tomorrow and one on September 30, the final day of the season, but the Cards will be required to win only one of those contests to remain in front, provided they come within a single game of winning as often as the Giants in their seven clashes with other opponents.

Quite a difference between that situation, which strongly favors the St. Louis club, and the deadlock that would have existed after yesterday's double-header if Harper's bat had not carried the McKechnie tribe to victory. Incidentally it is the first time this season that Larry Benton has lost two games in succession.

AND that isn't the full extent of the damage that Harper has done to the Giants' pennant chances of late. On September 6 he kept New York from gaining on the leaders by saving his club from defeat at Pittsburgh's hands with a home-run smash in the tenth inning after the Bucs had taken the lead. In other games, too, his long drives have played a prominent part in Cardinal victories.

Meanwhile, O'Farrell, who was obtained by New York in exchange for Harper, has been only a second-string catcher for the Giants, and is batting only .206 to date against Harper's mark of 2.94, bearing out the opinion of many Pittsburgh fans at the time of the trade that St. Louis got the better of the deal.

Bob O'Farrell.

IN VIEW of the part that Harper is playing in helping the Cardinals to beat out the Giants for the flag, the St. Louis club, no doubt, will be praised to the skies for the "keen judgment" it showed in acquiring and keeping the hard-hitting outfielder. But as a matter of fact no credit of that sort is due the Redbird bosses, for if the Pittsburgh club had not intervened they would not have kept Harper on their roster and he would not be in their lineup now winning games for them. The fans of the Mound City have the Pittsburg club to thank for the fact that Harper is still in the National League.

ABOUT a month ago St. Louis asked waivers on Harper with a view to sending him to one of the Cardinal minor league farms, but Pittsburgh put in a claim for him and was the only major league club that refused to pass him up.

St. Louis withdrew the waiver request and kept the player after President Breadon had twice begged President Dreyfuss by phone to step aside. Possibly Pittsburgh may have won the pennant for the Missourians by forcing them to keep the man who has since done so much for them.

HARPER did not equal the record for home runs in one game. The high mark is four, set by Bob Lowe in 1894 and equaled by Ed Delehanty in 1896. Each man made a single in addition to his four homers.

Harper is the twenty-second major league player after Lowe and Delehanty to make three four-baggers in a single contest. No Pittsburgh player ever did it, but five who wore Pirate uniforms at some stage of their careers accomplished the feat while playing for other teams—Guy Hecker, Frank Shugart, Tom McCreery, Jake Beckley and George Kelley.

IN THE American League the pennant lead of the Yanks was cut to one game by the Hugmen's defeat in 12 innings at Chicago and the victory of the Athletics over Detroit. The A's may have some trouble before they get out of Detroit, as the Tigers have a couple side-arm pitchers in Van Gilder and Gibson who have a habit of making things disagreeable for them. Van Gilder once beat the Mackmen three times in a series of four games, pitching one full contest and being awarded victories in two others, in which he served as a relief hurler.

John McGraw.

PITTSBURGH has the distinction of being the home of the first American ever elected a member of the International Amateur Swimming Federation. The local man thus honored is John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. and chairman of the national swimming committee.

Furthermore, Mr. Taylor is asked in his new capacity as a Federation member to select a man to represent the United States on an international committee of five being appointed to consider any proposals for changes in the rules governing diving competition.

NOTIFICATION that he has been chosen from among all the swimming officials and authorities in America to serve on the big international body has just been received by the Pittsburgher.

It came in a letter from Dr. Leo Donath, of Budapest,

The local collegiate squad will leave for Morgantown Friday evening after a brief signal drill. Coach Cam Henderson said he would take about 20 men.

BUCS OUT TO FINISH IN MONEY POSITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Although they may be found reposing in fourth place when the season ends, about 10 days hence, the Pirates are out to win as often as possible. That was the feeling of the Free-booters today as they made ready for their second game with the Quakers.

The Giants and Cubs would both have to go into a big slump in order to allow the Buccos to advance, just the same the Bush-whackers will fight hard for every game.

Remy Kremer is due to face the Quakers this afternoon. Frenchy has missed a turn or two on the mound as a result of a sore arm, but he worked out yesterday and may be able to face the cellar champs in the second encounter. It is likely that Jack Milligan, new southpaw, will heckle the Pirates.

POOR BASEBALL.

The Buccos had a tough time winning the first clash with the Quakers yesterday, the final count being 6 to 4. Both sides played very bad baseball, the outfield being too soft for fast play.

Manager Bush saw the victory clinched from the clubhouse window, and there was a feeling that he might be viewing today's game and one or two more from a similar point of vantage, owing to a big argument that developed in the seventh inning yesterday. Donie had an argument with all three umpires, and to the fans it seems as if the three of them ordered him out, but this actually was done by Charlie Moran and Sherwood Magee. In the midst of the excitement, Outfielder Pete Scott made a wise-crack to Sherry, and Pete had to accompany Donie to the showers.

The trouble arose over a run-down play on Sprout Waner. Bush claimed that Sand did not touch Sprout, who fell to the ground as Heinie charged him. Beans Reardon ruled that Lloyd was touched, and Beans and Donie had a big verbal argument.

BUSH ORDERED OUT.

Bush seemed still to be in the good graces of the officials until he arrived at the plate on the way to the bench. He and Moran then exchanged courtesies, and a moment later Charles told the Pirate manager to turn the other way and keep moving, the clubhouse being the designated terminal.

Meantime, Scott and Magee got into the argument, and for a few minutes there was some big excitement around the Pittsburgh bench. Eventually Bush and his outfielder headed for the clubhouse, from which point they saw the remainder of the fight. The score was tied at the time of the departure of the two.

The Buccos won the contest in the next two innings, although the Quakers gave them a helping hand by their bad work of the eighth, when the home team led off with three singles. Klein tried to score on the third hit of the inning, but he was cut down. P. Waner to Hemsley. It was very bad baseball to take a chance of this kind, only one tally being needed to score at the time.

HURLERS HIT FREELY.

Carmen Hill and Claude Willoughby fought it out on the mound, the two righthanders being hit quite freely, and neither was given championship support. The Pirates scored in the first with two down on Traynor's three-bagger, which followed a muff by Southern. Southern and Thompson led off with singles in the home half, Southern registering in the inning.

Virgil Davis and L. Waner punched out two-run homers to give the battle a flavor. Davis socked one into the seats with Sand on the cushions in the fourth with two out, and Sprout drove one off the short right-field fence in the fifth with two out. Sparky Adams also cashing in on the blow.

The Quakers took the lead again in the sixth, which Leach started

HORNSBY GAINS ON P. WANER

Rogers Hornsby found Cincinnati pitchers easy picking and he bit off four out of seven in a double-header. Paul Waner got only one hit in four attempts and as a result fell one point to .381, while Hornsby was advancing three notches to .386.

Heinie Manush slacked his speed a trifle in his drive to gain the American batting lead, getting only one out of three against Ed Morris at St. Louis, but he remained in the lead over Goose Goslin, of Washington, who was idle. Manush's average remained stationary at .372 against the .371 already owned by Goslin. Gehrig got one out of three and remained stationary at .369. The standing:

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The rather impotent mathematical chance of the Pirates is slowly ebbing away. With 10 games left on their card, the Buccos are eight and one-half games behind the Redbirds, who have nine contests unplayed.

Rogers Hornsby has taken the batting lead away from Paul Waner, who has been slumping a bit. The Rajah had a big day in the double bill with the Reds, while Brother Paul could make only one safety in his joust with the Quakers. Sprout, the younger, has enough hits to give his brother a boost if they could be transferred. The wee centerfielder rapped out four safeties. He went up and down the scale by hitting a homer on the one occasion and beating out a bunt on another dash.

The Quakers gave Carmen Hill quite a bit of trouble, but Hill's support was not of the best. The outfielders of both sides did a lot of staggering on account of the wet condition of the pasture.

Lloyd Waner says he was not touched out in the seventh in the play that caused the big argument and the dismissal of Donie Bush and Pete Scott. Lloyd declares that if he were touched he did not feel the ball on his person. The little Pirate undertook to dive under Heinie Sand as Sand reached for him with the ball.

Bill McKechnie has ever been a great judge of diamond stars. Many folks figured Bill was wofsted by McGraw when he gave Bob O'Farrell for George Harper. Harper's feat of yesterday probably will reverse the verdict in the minds of many followers of the game.

Think of how Bill landed Clarence Mitchell when that star lefthander was put on the market. And Skipper Bill doubtless had something to say about the swap that brought Jimmy Wilson to the Cards.

The fans of Philadelphia are all worked up over their fighting A's who again threaten to dislodge the unsteady Yankees. The world champions are holding to their top position today by only one game. Countless thousands are hoping for victory for Connie Mack and his athletes.

NEW ERAS ADVANCE

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The Cincinnati New Eras continued their winning play in the National Baseball Federation tournament, downing the Highland Cubs of New Haven, Conn., 8 to 6, in the sixth round of the playoff to determine the 1928 champions, yesterday.

NEW BERTH IS LANDED BY OLLIE DE VICTOR

OLLIE DeVICTOR, trainer of the Pitt athletic teams for eight years before his recent dismissal in the change of administration at the local university, has connected with a new job that may prove even more attractive than the one from which he was ousted after enjoying his most successful season during the last collegiate year, when three of the teams trained by him—the football eleven and the basketball and swimming teams—went undefeated.

Ollie DeVictor.

DeVictor will be the new trainer at Washington University at St. Louis, under Al Sharpe, the new athletic and physical director there.

Sharpe is a former Yale star who later coached at Cornell university and more recently has been an outstanding football official. Sharpe will coach the Washington eleven in addition to having charge of all athletic and physical work of the students. He opened negotiations with DeVictor as soon as he heard Ollie was available. Ollie had two other offers under consideration when he closed definitely yesterday to go with Sharpe. He will report on his new job before October 1.

Before coming to Pitt, DeVictor was trainer at Penn State College for nine years and his sudden dismissal at Pitt, in view of his success here, caused much surprise. Bud Moore, trainer at Lafayette College, when Dr. Jock Sutherland, present Pitt coach, was mentor there, has succeeded DeVictor at Pitt.

BARONS NEED VICTORY TO CLINCH DIXIE TITLE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Feeling that nothing less than a miracle can prevent them from winning the 1928 Southern Association pennant, their first since 1914 — Birmingham Barons leave here today for Memphis, where the series will be resumed Saturday against the Chicksaws.

The Barons go to the Tennessee city with two victories, turned in here in the first two games of the playoff series, and needing only one more game to give them the title.

GRAYS, BLACKSOX CLASH

The Homestead Grays and the Baltimore Blacksox will open a three-game series at Forbes Field this evening, starting at 5:30 p. m. A doubleheader will be played at the same field tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

REDBIRDS' MISPLAYS KEEP RACE OPEN

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—If you asked the St. Louis Cardinals today, they would tell you that they are riding side-saddle to the National League pennant after winning the first game of their doubleheader with the Giants yesterday. If you asked the writer, he might venture to say, that, after the Cards had won and then had blown the second game, the Giant's cause is not as hopeless as might be indicated by their two-game deficit with only nine remaining to be played.

There is something psychologically disquieting to any club when it goes into the eighth inning behind a 4-to-2 lead, with its favorite pitcher in operation and can't protect its advantage. What makes this omission all the more heinous is the fact that a victory in this second game virtually would have carried with it the National League pennant.

Six batters away from the goal of their hearts' desire and yet unable to reach it. If Alexander, seemingly about to score his first decision over the Giants this year, simply had failed to get the hitters out, one might lift a careless shoulder and call it a break of the game. But Alexander, far from blameless though he might be, had to see the first run of the inning score on Jimmy Wilson's passed ball and Maranville fill the bases with a fumble on Jackson, before he pitched that home run ball to Hogan. The Jackson tap should have ended the inning and, to all purposes, the game with the score 4 to 3, for the Rabbit had a force play at all three bases and nothing more to do about it than to pick up an ordinary ground hit.

CARDS NOT "IN"

The sudden shift of fortunes, reducing the Cards from the status of a potential pennant winner to that of merely a leading contender again, must have been somewhat discon-

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

YESTERDAY, I asked Jack Zivic, just back from his vacation in California, to name the hardest-hitting opponent he has faced in his ring career.

He did not hesitate a moment. He did not mention Lew Tendler, Nate Goldman or any of the others against whom his Pittsburgh admirers had seen him in action but nominated Eddie Roberts, of California, for the honor.

"When I boxed Roberts in Cleveland, after Roberts had jumped into fame by knocking out Joe Dundee just before Joe won the welterweight championship from Pete Latzo, I was as a baby in his hands," Jack declared. "He was altogether too big and too strong for me, and how he could punch! I don't know how I was able to stand up under the hammering I took that night."

And where is Roberts today, only a little more than a year later? Back in California, where Zivic ran across him in a gymnasium during his visit. Back in California, dubbing along because he made the mistake of trying to remain a welterweight when he really should have been fighting in the middleweight division. Shortly after defeating Zivic, he went to Boston and was knocked out by Al Mello in the first round. A few other poor showings in the East and he returned home, where he was knocked out by Young Corbett and beaten by others.

ZIVIC is considerably exercised over the action of the New York Athletic Commission in ruling that protection cups are not to be worn any more by boxers in that state, as a move to reduce the number of fouls. Jack thinks the plan is a foolish one and can lead only to irreparable harm.

"Fine the low hitters, or bar them out of the sport," Jack argues, "but don't run the risk of crippling boxers for life by refusing them protection to which they are entitled."

He even has gone so far as to write a letter on the subject which he has sent to the New York boxing scribes. In it he has set forth the boxer's side of the debate.

SOUTHERN gridirons are well sprinkled with former Pitt football stars serving in the capacity of coaches. Among them are Jimmy DeHart, who is at Duke, in North Carolina; Pat Herron, at Washington and Lee, and Andy Gustafson, at V. P. I. Earl (Greasy) Neale, former West Virginia Wesleyan and National League baseball star, who later coached his alma mater and Marietta and Wash.-Jeff., is at Virginia.

THE lid pops off the college football season tomorrow, and all of the old grads will be asking about the scores of the Cardinals', Giants', Yankees' and Athletics' games. And the grid season will be about four weeks under way before it will be able to crowd baseball, world series and all, off the stage. That's rushing matters, isn't it?

TOLEDOAN INJURES HAND IN SEVENTH

By JAMES MILLER.

IKE M'FOWLER, Johnstown Negro heavyweight, added another victim to his long string of vanquished when he hammered out a well-earned decision over Joe Packo, of Toledo, in the 10-round feature bout of Jim McGirr's second indoor boxing show at the Palisades roller rink, McKeesport, last night.

McFowler, planning to bring the fight to sudden end, tore into Packo at the bell and began pounding short, but mighty lefts and right hooks to the Toledo fighter's midsection and head. After surviving this minute of glove flurry, Packo showed he could use both of his own hands, in forcing McFowler about the ring under a barrage of blows.

In the third round, Packo rushed McFowler against the ropes near his own corner and began shooting both gloves into Ike's anatomy. In the scuffle Packo unleashed a low right and McFowler fell to the floor claiming a foul. Referee Red Robinson assisted McFowler to his corner. After a rest, the low blow leaving no ill effects, McFowler motioned he was ready to go on with the fight, all of which showed fine spirit.

Packo injured his right hand in the seventh and was forced to fight the remaining rounds with his left hand, his right acting merely as a guard.

Even after the pasting McFowler administered Packo in the last five rounds, the judges' vote was split, McLaughlin voting for the Flood City fighter and Jock Simco a draw. Referee Robinson cleared matters up by tossing in his slip for McFowler. Packo topped the beam at 182¾ pounds and McFowler at 190¾.

In the semi-final, Young Guido, clever Niles (O.) lad, gained the verdict over Young Marco Polo, of Pittsburgh. Guido had little trouble, winning five out of the six rounds.

The second bout came to an end before the limited time when Joe Perry, Carnegie, stopped Luther McCarthy, of New Kensington, after one minute and 25 seconds of fighting in the third round. Perry weighed 157½ pounds and McCarthy 149½.

William Bollender, 123½, of Youngstown, kayoed Johnny Morten 125½, Homestead, after one minute and 40 seconds of mixing in the fourth round of the opening bout.

12 RULES FOR SUCCESS

by GENE TUNNEY
RETIRED HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

NO. 3—APPLAUSE.

NAPOLEON the Great continually was saying "What is Paris saying?" The roar of cannon, the clash of saber, the cry of the wounded never hushed his desire to know what Paris was thinking of him.

It is the insatiate desire for applausee, the pastime of a small man. Applause turns many a promising youth from the paths of usefulness. It is natural for every man to enjoy commendation and praise. Criticism, ridicule or unkind judgments are not enjoyable, but even in the most caustic moods they are not as dangerous to a man's makeup as senseless applause.

The same enthusiasm that sends a king to a throne sends him to the scaffold. The most brainless group in the world is a crowd, swayed and moved by momentary excitement. For a man to take his hat off every time he speaks of himself, or to bow to himself when others speak his praise, is an evidence of inherent weakness.

A boxer is human. He covets the friendship and praise of those who believe in him and encourage his every effort, but for a man who enters the ring to be affected by the enthusiasm and applause that greets his rival is an evidence of crass weakness. Many a man has floundered about the ring for several rounds because he believed the crowd was against him.

The test of the real man is right at this point. If he has a sense of values he knows the crowd can make only a noise. It has no power to use a punch, stop a blow, make a feint, or sidestep a dangerous thrust. The real boxer talks to himself and this is what he says:—"I have trained conscientiously for this hour and have lived clean, I have only one opponent in this ring and he is not any better equipped than I am, I am going to change the chorus of this crowd from a minor strain of indifference to a major strain of approval."

The applause or booing of a crowd means nothing to a man who has his plan of battle before him, and, with intelligence, skill and determination, proceeds to put his plan across.

In my earlier days this was a hard lesson to learn, for, after all, I am only human, but with every succeeding contest, no attention at all was paid by me as to whether I was the favorite. When the final gong sounded the result would be the same. If my rival won, the cheers would be his—and rightly so. If I won, they would be mine. In either cases it would reveal the fickleness of a crowd.

My advice to young men in every line of adventure is this: Receive courteously any praises and commendation that may come, but never permit applause to upset your mental program and your moral determination.

GENE SARAZEN RETAINS TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The metropolitan professional golf championship went to Gene Sarazen for the second year in succession when the Fresh Meadow star defeated Craig Wood, of Forest Hill, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final round yesterday.

For 21 holes Sarazen outclassed his rival and appeared to be on his way to a one-sided victory. Wood was 4 down at the end of 18, and lost two more on the next three holes. Then the Forest Hill star took three of the next six holes to be only three down at the turn. He continued this streak by taking the twenty-eighth with a fine three, but lost the twenty-ninth by poor putting. Here Sarazen took a brace and held the long-hitting New Jersey star to halves on the next four. Gene dropped the thirty-fourth when his approach was too strong, but the match ended on the next hole when Wood could do nothing better than halve it in four.

Morbito Sensation

UNHERALDED and unsung, but doing his work in a characteristic pose, Joe Morbito, back of two years ago, has come along so rapidly during the several weeks of preliminary training that Coaches Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech, hinted the Salem (O.) gridder will be used at one of the halves, most likely as an alternate.

Morbito weighs around 175 pounds, is rugged and a glutton for punishment.

The Tartan varsity candidates are scheduled to scrimmage the plebes this afternoon. The heated session was postponed yesterday owing to heavy condition of the field.

The alumni of Carnegie Tech will get its first opportunity to see the varsity candidates in action when they stack up against the Plebes. It is a "get together" affair for the grads, who will be feted at the Field House after the scrimmage. A corn roast is on the menu.

RAIN CHECKS PANTHERS

Forty-eight hours of persistent rain failed to discourage Coach Jock Sutherland's varsity grid candidates, who let a smile be their umbrella as they sloshed through the second afternoon of aquatic working conditions yesterday.

Coach Sutherland had planned to put his candidates through one of the hardest practice sessions of the year, but was forced to postpone the heavy workout until the gridiron has dried out a bit.

However, the Panthers got in a few good training licks with a soggy ball, Edwards, Parkinson and Rooney practiced punting the water-logged pumpkin and got some surprisingly good boots. Edwards attempted a few passes against the frosh, who scrimmaged the varsity for a short time, but not many of his tosses were accurate.

DUQUESNE.

Although the Dukes rested from scrimmage yesterday, they had so much other work to do that it would have been more or less welcomed. The whole team was kept going for two solid hours with barely a minutes' rest. An unusually tough calisthenics drill started the ball rolling. Then one squad under Layden attacked the tackling dummy. Layden worked them unmercifully. At the same time the other squad went through a snappy signal drill under the eye of Reagan.

Stanly Prokopowicz, mainstay of the Duke line last year, has been appointed coach of the Duquesne University Preparatory School, thus making all Duke teams more or less Notre Dame- coached. Proky was only one year under Layden, but he fell in with the system at once.

WASH.-JEFF.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 21.—Physical fitness of Washington & Jefferson's football players is commented upon here with the absence of serious injuries thus far in the preliminary practice sessions. But one casualty of any consequence has cropped up to date, Jap Douds having had a cut forehead early in the training, but he has recovered from this and rejoined the squad.

With about a half-week of hard drill remaining before the opening engagement, a survey of the situation at W. & J. made by an experienced football man, who has been in close contact with the practice since its inception, proclaims the team "A line better than that of last year; a backfield somewhat uncertain and undoubtedly inexperienced, but apparently capable of splendid effort later on, and a lack of reserve material in all departments" is the summation of the situation he makes. In the final analysis it may be the lack of reserve strength that may prove Wash.-Jeff.'s biggest handicap.

ST. VINCENT'S

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 21.—St. Vincent's College football coaches gave the players plenty of practice yesterday in handling a wet ball. Blinda and Lukas were drilled in kicking and Razzo, Mannion and Roy Dailey were the principal handlers of the kicks. After a scrimmage, a long blackboard drill followed in the gym.

WEST VIRGINIA

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 21.—Equipped in new, well-fitting uniforms, the West Virginia Mountaineers went through a long signal practice, which included work in punting and passing, yesterday.

Coach Rodgers will send the varsity gridmen through another signal drill on Mountaineer Field this afternoon in the final practice before the opening game. The field was further soaked by a day's drizzle of rain and will, doubtless, be soggy for the encounter with Davis-Elkins.

SOCCER by TOM BIRKS

IT IS expected a couple of games will be staged in the Central League tomorrow afternoon, but as yet no schedule has been published regarding it. It appears Leechburg is protesting the game with Pittsburgh last Saturday, but nothing regarding what the protest is has been given out.

News that Harmarville failed to appear for its game with Springdale also comes to hand. However, the Central loop should go over all right after its opening troubles have passed away.

The American League will stage three games on Sunday. That meaning Heidelberg will be idle again. Seven teams have posted forfeit in that loop and another one would be welcome. Dunlevy will play its first game in many years in McKeesport, meeting the National Tube. This being Dunlevy's first showing for over a big game and crowd should ensue.

Westinghouse will meet the German Sport Club. The Germans should be hard-pushed to collect the points. The Sport club will be without the services of Otto Zetel. He was one of the few men in the district who really knew the art of playing center half.

The Corinthians will meet East Pittsburgh Magyars. The Magyars have another club that excels in playing scientific soccer. While it is getting in the brilliant stuff, however, many chances to score are overlooked.

What happened to all the local clubs in the national challenge competition? Only Dunlevy and Pittsburgh are entered, and Dunlevy has the game. Taking a peek at the entry list some of the American League clubs must have crossed up the boys because some of its names are in the hat.

Jack Delaney.

"I HAVE the honor to inform you, Secretary Donath wrote, "that you were elected by the congress of the Federation Internationale de Natation Amateur at Amsterdam on August 13, 1928, a member of our organization, and avail myself of the occasion to ask you to grant me your valuable support in the rather difficult task I assumed by being elected secretary. The Congrss decided to elect a permanent diving committee of five mmbers to consider proposed changes in the diving rules, and I ask you to let me know at your earliest convenience, whom you consider, on behalf of the A. A. U., the best American diving expert fit to sit on that committee. The Bureau of the F. I. N. A. will hold its next meeting in London in 1929, and we sincerely hope that you will attend." Mr. Taylor is also asked to recommend a swimming coach to serve for one year from January 1, 1929, in six of the swimming countries of Europe.

JACK DELANEY did no more than the majority of fight followers had expected of him when he knocked out Nando Tassi in the eleventh round of his come-back fight in Brooklyn last night, his first ring appearance in more than four months.

In fact, most fans had anticipated a victory for Delaney in shorter time, on account of his far greater experience, if nothing else, Tassi has been in the game only two years and even against such mn as Wyoming Warner and Lee Williams failed to show any indication that he was fit to cope with any of the really experienced men in his division.

CARDS-GIANTS

certing and, offhand, it might seem that the Giants are in the better position morally, to go after tomorrow's finale. As a matter of fact, they thought they were beaten in that second game yesterday and until the Cards refused to have it that way, were just playing out their string as required by law. It really is a terrible thing to lick the other guy and then see him win, after all.

No, the Cards aren't "in," at least, not yet. They might blow that one tomorrow, in which case their lead will be only one game with eight to go. It is my notion that a one-game lead is nothing to write Aunt Fanny about, even with only one to play. The "key" game of the situation, therefore, must come tomorrow. If the Cardinals lose it, the thing will become a fight to the finish with the Giant-Card game of September 30 the great "convincer" for one club or the other. If the Cards win tomorrow, however, the Giants very well might forget the entire matter as hurried as possible.

Still, these mathematical certainties at the end of a pennant race have a way of turning into mathematical interrogations. The Cardinals naturally are well "up" on the situation and must remain until we see what, if anything, happens tomorrow.

History, and fairly recent history at that, proves that there is nothing mathematically certain until the last vote is in, however. Thumb back through memory's pages to the year of grace, 1922, and you will recall that the Yankees left for home with a 4½-game lead over the Browns after their famous series at Sportsman's Park. At that particular juncture, the Yanks had only four games to play, the Browns five. Therefore, the Yankees' ultimate victory was certain, wasn't it? No, Willimantic, it wasn't.

All they had to do was win one of their four, while the Browns dropped one out of five and it was over. But the Browns won five straight from tough clubs, while the Yanks were beaten twice by the lowly Red Sox and only pulled out the third and pennant-deciding game by a whisper.

The Cards get the easy clubs after they leave here and the Giants must take the tough ones, but if the latter win tomorrow's game don't take too much for granted. It is to be hoped, for the Cardinals' sake, that they won't either.

PLAN "VICTORY" PARADE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A "victory" parade for the St. Louis Cardinals is planned by local fans if the Redbirds win the pennant. City Registrar Jack Grosse is chairman of the arrangements committee. October 6 has been tentatively set for the date of the procession. If the Cards win the pennant they will remain in the East and open the World's Series in either New York or Philadelphia, October 4.

PIRATES

with a double. Sacrifice lofts by Hurst and Whitney sent the Philly left-fielder across. Hemsley reached base on Sand's error at the start of the seventh, but Hill forced him. Adams singled to center, and when Southern tumbled on the wet grass Hill went to third. On the throw to third Sparky ran to second.

Sprout Waner's third hit of a cluster of four made during the afternoon scored Hill and sent Adams to third. Lloyd went to second as the ball was thrown to third by Leach. Brother Paul's grounder to Hurst resulted in the boxing of Adams. In the run-down, Sprout was trapped and touched out, according to the umpires. It was this play that started the argument.

Grantham opened the eighth with a single to center, and Wright dropped a lucky double in the same field. Comorosky's fly to Leach scored Grantham and moved Wright ahead, but Glenn was nailed between third and home on Hemsley's grounder.

After the Quakers had bungled their three hits of the eighth inning, the Pirates went out in the ninth and made a run on Sprout Waner's double and Paul's single. Hill blanked the foe in the ninth.

BLAW KNOX HOLDS GAIN ON RUMOR OF SPLIT-UP

Stocks were in good demand again today on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with Blaw Knox Steel holding the gains recorded yesterday and Lone Star Gas continuing its upward movement.

Blaw Knox was handled in the early market at figures slightly above last night's final but a little below the high reached on the sudden bulge yesterday. The impression in the street is that a split-up of the shares is pending although there has been no official word on the subject. Some of the traders are so confident of their position that they are expecting an official announcement from Blaw Knox officials in about a week.

Lone Star sold into new high ground early in the day as the supply of stocks around recently prevailing prices was gradually eliminated. News on Lone Star the past few weeks has been favorable to an advance in the shares, the latest item reaching the street being that the company showed a profit for August, the first time in its history that it has been able to earn anything for the stock in the month of August.

The glass stocks were quiet and there was no response today to the announcement of a raise in window glass prices by the American Window Glass Company. Apparently this action was discounted by the recent flurry in the glass issues which carried several of the stocks to new high records.

Is Full Dinner Pail Not of Very Much Importance?

—By B. C. FORBES—

A MINISTER made this statement in his sermon last Sunday:

"It is an indictment of our culture and civilization that we consider the matter of the full dinner pail so important in our voting."

Is he right?

HOW many poor people can this preacher have among his parishioners? One must judge that he comes into slight contact with poverty-stricken individuals and families.

If he had rubbed shoulders half as much as I have with poor people, he would have reached the conclusion that few things are more important than having enough to eat for self and children.

Never a week passes that the heart-breaking horrors of poverty are not brought home to me either by letters or by word of mouth.

The opposite of a full dinner pail is an empty stomach. And if this reverend gentleman can listen to the cry of an empty stomach, from either adult child, without feeling that a well-filled dinner pail is mighty important, then he must have a queer conception of life.

"WE must first live before we can philosophize," said a sage.

Is not the whole structure of civilization founded on the dinner pail?

Have the refinements of life ever flourished in a nation wallowing in poverty? Did not art, architecture, sculpture, painting, music, philosophy, make their most notable advances among nations where wealth abounded? Was it not wealth, not poverty, that stimulated the highest achievements of Egypt, of Greece, of Rome?

In more modern times has it not been the prosperous nations that have done most to further the development of both science and art and everything else identified with progressive civilization?

In Biblical times the finest temples, for example, were not raised by peoples steeped in poverty. The noblest sacred edifices in later times have usually been the handiwork of prosperous nations.

In our own land, at present the most prosperous of all, the most notable building under way at this moment is a cathedral.

TRUE, life does not consist merely of eating and drinking. But how satisfactory either to God or man can be a life bereft of enough to eat? Surely a merciful God doesn't want His Children to starve?

What good things are coming out of the nations most afflicted with empty dinner pails today? What are the vast poverty-ridden areas of China contributing to the benefit of the human race? What that is worthy and noble and helpful is coming from the poorest parts of India? Surely the tragic drama unfolding in Russia does not glorify the empty dinner pail?

In America and elsewhere we associate slums with empty dinner pails. Do slums and the pinching and starving and sickness associated with them appeal to us as inspiring, deserving of every effort to expand them?

Finally, how can he who does not earnestly strive to keep his own pail from being empty help to succor others?

Any government that minimizes the importance of keeping dinner pails full would be recreant to its duty.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 4 to 12 points. Active months showed net advances of 6 to 13 points after the call on covering, combined with trade and commission house buying on the relatively firm showing of Liverpool and reports of storm damage to cotton in Georgia and the Carolinas.

December sold up to 17.80c and March to 17.75c, but these prices attracted realizing and southern hedging and the market showed reactions of 6 or 7 points from the best at the end of the first hour, with trading comparatively quiet.

Private cables reported London and Bombay buying, with a fair amount of trade calling in the Liverpool market, and that a fair cloth business was pending with India.

Buying was more active later in the morning and the market advanced sharply on unfavorable crop reports from the Eastern belt, and apprehensions of lower temperatures in the West. December contracts sold up to 18.01c and March to 17.95c, making net gains of about 30 to 33 points, but the advance was checked by realizing and the market was a few points off from the best at midday. A private estimate placed the ginning prior to September 16 at 2,310,000 bales, while another made it 2,546,000 bales, compared with 3,504,295 bales last year.

NEWS AND VIEWS

GMO and Oils Buoyant.

The market paid little attention to the further increase in brokers' loans today, and while some issues were obviously laboring under the weight of fairly large profit taking, the general list was manfully sustained by an excited upward movement in General Motors and the oil stocks. General Motors opened wild on a block of 30,000 shares with the price officially set at 213½ to 214½. This opening was followed by trading in enormous volume with only a slight dip from the initial level, after which the stock began a steady, though hard-fought, advance to new high ground. The oils gave evidence of being in favor early in the day. Sinclair was the spearhead of the movement at the start, after which the other independent oils joined the movement to be followed ultimately by highest grade Standards and such shares as Texas Corporation and Shell Union. The immediate surrounding circumstances contributing to the upturn in the oils was the statement yesterday by Frank Phillips, president of Phillips Petroleum, that conditions in the industry warrant another advance in Mid-Continent crude prices. Surface appearance of the market today indicated that such action is evidently close at hand.

Gulf Head Optimistic.

Returning from abroad, where he attended the conferences of oil executives in England, W. L. Mellon, president of Gulf Oil Corporation, said: "The outlook for general improvement in the world oil market looks extremely encouraging. Oil consumption in Europe is increasing rapidly and shows every indication of continuing the improvement. Overproduction will, of course, continue to be a factor to be dealt with both here and abroad, but the prospects of improving the situation are better than they have been for some time." Regarding conferences and their relationship to Venezuela, where Gulf Oil is extensively engaged, Mr. Mellon intimated he was very hopeful the situation in that country would likewise feel the benefit of the better understanding.

Time Funds at New High.

Money conditions were unfavorable again today with short-term time funds (30 to 90 days) brining 7½ per cent, the highest in seven years. Foour to six months' loans were available at 7½. Call money opened at 8 per cent, the highest opening for some time. This compared with yesterday's opening at 7½, which was followed by an advance to 9 per cent in that session. The 8 per cent rate was stationary up to mid-afternoon today. There was no calling of loans and money market observers did not expect anything higher than the 8 per cent. Some market students expressed the opinion that money conditions would ease considerably by the middle of the coming week.

Oil Tax Fight On.

The Federal District Court in Louisiana has refused the application of the Ohio Oil Company for an injunction restraining enforcement of the new severance tax on crude oil and natural gas which recently became a law. It is expected an appeal will be made to the United States Court. Oil companies are opposing this new tax, which is regarded as the most drastic yet put into effect on crude oil. The tax varies with the gravity of the crude, but averages around 4 cents a barrel. On natural gas it amounts to about ¼ cent per 1,000,000 cubic feet. Oil companies have until October 31 to make a report to state authorities and pay the tax.

Glass Situation Satisfactory.

The American Glass Review tomorrow will say: "Production schedules at window glass factories are virtually unchanged from a week ago, and with the far more than normal number of orders sure to be placed next week owing to the price advance, a big increase in manufacturers' stocks is anticipated. Demand for plate glass continues in very satisfactory seasonal volume and leading factors in this branch of the industry are awaiting with much interest the President's action on the United States Tariff Commission's production cost report."

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with no sales reported, although the undertone was steadier with buyers showing more interest at 3.89c for spots, duty paid, but holders asking fractionally higher.

The raw sugar futures market opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher, but soon firmed up on increased covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections, and prices at midday showed net gains of 3 to 4 points on active positions. Trading was moderate and largely an evening-up for the week-end adjournment. The recent heavy selling in the market was believed to have been against purchases of Java, but there were no further offerings from this source this morning, while the steadier tone seemed to be due to a more optimistic feeling in the spot market.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.40c for fine granulated but demand was still light and of a routine character.

STOCK MARKET STEADIES AND TURNS UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP.)—The stock market resumed its upward price movement today after an early period of irregularity. Lowering of the call money rate from the renewal rate of 8 per cent to 7½, coupled with bankers' intimations of easier rates next week, helped to revive bullish enthusiasm, which had been dampened by the stiff money rates of the past few days.

Wall street was inclined to attribute the increase of $85,000,000 in brokers' loans last week to the increase in new bond offerings rather than to stock speculation. Because of the recent high money rates, brokers reported a tendency on the part of many professional traders to specialize in issues selling at $50 a share or less, thereby decreasing the carrying charges. Although sterling continued to rule around the "gold import," point, no word of any further shipments from London was received during the day.

The opening break of nearly 10 points in Freeport Texas, half of which was recovered by midday, was attributed to the reduction from 75 to 25 cents in the extra dividend at yesterday's meeting. Airplane shares also fell back sharply in the early trading, Wright dropping 9 points and Curtiss 5¾, but both recovered briskly in the early afternoon.

General Motors was again the market leader, climbing more than 4 points to a new 1928 high record at 216½ on a tremendous turnover. Murray Corporation ran up nearly 5 points to 83¾. Electric Auto Lite extended its gain to 111¼ and Kelsey-Hayes Wheel to 44⅞, all new high records.

Speculation in the oils centered in the low and medium priced issues such as Sinclair, Superior, Middle States and Lago. Purity Baking common and preferred each jumped about 5 points to new high records at 133½ and 165, respectively. National Dairy Products and Pennick and Ford adso moved into new high ground.

Greene Cananea Copper, with an extreme gain of 8 points, led the copper shares. American Express, Ludlum Steel, Otis Elevator, Lambert, Dupont, Houston Oil, General Asphalt and International Combustion all sold 3 to 5 points higher.

200,000 November Votes Possible in Pittsburgh

With many districts to be heard from, it is estimated that Tuesday's registration for the November election exceeded 50,000 in the city of Pittsburgh, making a total of 135,000, in round numbers, for the first two days of enrollment. In the last presidential election the total registration for three days was 127,357, already exceeded by 8,000, with another day coming to qualify for voting. The total registration last year was 153,356.

It is quite likely the total this year will be greatly in excess of the number enrolled for any previous election. It may even reach 200,000, which would mean that approximately 85,000 must be listed by the registrars Saturday, October 6, the final day.

If you have not registered keep that date in mind. If you have not paid taxes do not wait until October 5, but attend to that duty now. A larger number than ever are realizing the responsibilities of citizenship this year. It is a commendable spirit, which should be developed.

Be a voter. Be a real American.

Light in This Face, And Force

Like Trees, Human Beings Die at the Top.

ELLEN TERRY AT EIGHTY YEARS OF AGE.

This picture will interest women fifty and OLDER, and it OUGHT to interest them.

It shows Ellen Terry, great British actress, as she was just before her eightieth birthday.

Women past middle age will study this strong face with interest. There is LIGHT, COURAGE, INTELLIGENCE in those eyes, and interest in the affairs of human beings.

Ellen Terry remained young; she kept this fine expression at eighty because HER MIND STAYED YOUNG, WHILE HER BODY GREW OLD.

We cannot prevent ageing of the body, but we CAN prevent ageing of the mind.

Human beings, like trees, die at the top. You know that a tree is going when you see the top withered.

HER FIRST PART. AS PORTIA.

You know that a human being is going, so far as real life, the life of the mind, is concerned, when you see a face from which the LIGHT has gone, eyes in which there is no "speculation."

Unfortunately the world gives few opportunities to the average WOMAN past middle age. She does her work, rears her children, looks after her household, or looks after the children of others. Years come on and she is pushed aside, a piece of furniture once useful, now out of date.

It is hard to remain young, hard to keep light in the face and warmth in the heart, in the face of indifference. Too many women know that to their sorrow.

Nevertheless, THE MIND CAN BE KEPT INTERESTED AND ALIVE AND VIGOROUS.

And these pictures of Ellen Terry will encourage women, and men, too, sliding down the hill on the far side of fifty.

One picture shows Ellen Terry in her first appearance on the stage, eight years of age. Back in 1856 she appeared with the great actor, Charles Kean. Ever since and until her death Ellen Terry's mind HAD BEEN BUSY. No stagnation, no yielding to the years.

Her country honored her while she lived, a happy existence. And after she was cremated her ashes were put in a little white cradle—designed by her son. It was her own desire "to return to the cradle whence she had come."

The other picture shows Ellen Terry at the height of her power.

WATCH YOUR FOOT, NURSE!

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Sign of the Equinox

A GREAT star-cornered square, high on the meridian, at midnight tomorrow, will be the celestial signal flag announcing the arrival of the Autumn Equinox. The star-figure is known to astronomers as the "Great Square of Pegasus," forming a part of the constellation Pegasus. The two stars marking the eastern side of the square are among the most significant naked-eye landmarks in the heavens, for they show the course of the great Equinoctial Colure, an imaginary line crossing the sky through the zenith and connecting the two equinoctial points, at one of which the sun begins to come north of the equator in March, while at the other it begins to sink below the equator into the southern hemisphere in September.

These two stars are worth knowing by name. The northerly one is called Alpheratz, and the southerly one Gamma Pegasus. If you run the eye from north to south through these stars and continue the line about as much farther it will lead very nearly to the place of the Vernal Equinox, where the sun crosses the equator, coming north about March 20. Then run the same imaginary line back toward the north, up through the zenith, and it will lead past the W-shaped figure in Cassiopeia to the Pole Star, and following it down the northern slope of the sky your eye will be brought next to the "Great Dipper," near the junction of the "bowl" and the "handle."

From there, if you could continue the line below the northern horizon, it would lead to the place of the Autumn Equinox, where the sun is crossing the equator, going south, at the supposed time of the observation, viz., near midnight September 22.

The star Alpheratz, although it marks one of the corners of the Square of Pegasus, is assigned in astronomical charts to the constellation Andromeda, in which it decorates the head of the beautiful maiden whom ancient fable chained there to await the dreadful "sea-monster," sent by Neptune to devour her. Andromeda's slender starry form is seen stretching eastward from Alpheratz, and just beyond her feet, where Algol winks its evil eye, flashes, in the midst of the Galaxy, the diamond-hilted sword of Perseus, hastening to the rescue.

When the Square of Pegasus shines on the meridian, Orion is seen rising in prismatic splendor through the refracting atmosphere of the eastern horizon, preceded by the glittering swarm of the Pleiades, and the red gleam of Aldebaran in the Hyades.

In mid-winter, when the Great Square is poised for its setting on the western rim of the horizon, Orion will have succeeded to its place (but a little lower) on the meridian, with the celestial equator running almost directly through the three bright stars of the Giant's belt.

It is by watching, in this way, from month to month and season to season, that one can best become familiar with the constellations in their relations to one another, and to the apparent movements of the sun. It was by observations of this simple kind that the first steps in astronomy were taken, and many of the most imposing monuments left by past civilizations, including the huge pyramids and the immense temples of Egypt, the strange architectures of Central America, the enigmatical constructions of Stonehenge and the Druidic dolmens and menhirs of Carnac, are indications of the attitude of men's minds toward the phenomena of the heavens before the dawn of scientific astronomy, which studies them with reference to the universe rather than simply to the earth and the needs of its inhabitants.

Why Not?

THERE are 98 different legal weights to the bushel in this country, typical of its jumble of weights and measures.

Business would save at least half a million dollars yearly if we had the metric system and a scientific calendar.

Why not save it?

Isn't It So?

There is plenty of room at the top, but no man ever gets so high as to be above criticism.

Return Hospitality

ARE you a social leech?

Accepting every opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of others, but failing to return the compliment?

If you cannot afford to do what others are doing, why accept invitations?

Your social code in this respect should be as strong as your line of action in business or other endeavor.

If you feel that your home is not as well furnished as you wish, if for some reason you can not be as lavish as your friends and you think a simple entertainment would not be acceptable, why not drop out for a time?

Give yourself time, if that is what you need to enable you to play the social game in a reciprocal manner.

Perhaps you think your presence is so desirable and your company so interesting that there is no thought given to the matter of your doing your share in a social way.

In exceptional cases this might be true.

But to gain the reputation of taking all you can get without a thought of grateful appreciation beyond the words you can say gracefully is not right.

Expect to do your part, if you don't you'll be discussed.

The Primrose

DOWN a path of sun and shadow
Where the ferns and mosses cling,
Just at dawn I found a flower,
Spring's first primrose blossoming.

Tender were the thoughts it brought me
Of that other far-off Spring,
When my soul was stirred with wonder
Life could hold so sweet a thing.

Fragrant memories of sunbeams
Tangled in a baby's hair,
Eyes that mocked the sky's own azure,
Little hands so flower-fair.

God's own gardens glow with glory
Of the glad, celestial Spring,
And the air is filled with voices
Of the angels as they sing.

God's own fields are white with lilies
And with asphodel are sweet,
But His fairest flowers are children
Clustered close about His feet.

Great Passages from the Bible

Moses Views the Promised Land

(Deuteronomy 34)

AND Moses went up from the plains of Moab unto the mountain of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, that is over against Jericho. And the Lord shewed him all the land of Gilead, unto Dan,

And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea,

And the south, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, unto Zoar.

And the Lord said unto him, This is the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed: I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go over thither.

So Moses the servant of the Lord died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the Lord.

And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor: but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated.

And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days: so the days of weeping and mourning for Moses were ended.

And Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Moses had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the Lord commanded Moses.

And there arose not a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face,

In all the signs and the wonders, which the Lord sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land,

And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moses shewed in the sight of all Israel.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THESE here loud cats do cause a lot of trouble in some city neighborhoods. A man named Jones, for instance, stayed home from work one day to see if he couldn't kill the cat that had yowled outside his window all night. Mrs. Smith saw him throwing pop bottles, and she says, "Here, you can't do that way! That's our cat, and he's a valuable Persian, worth a lot of dough."

"Well, but if he's valuable, what makes him howl such terrible noises all night?"

"Why, you poor ignoramus, that's the sign of how valuable he is. Them high notes prove his genteel ancestry. I tell you, that cat has got nothing but the finest old Persian fiddlestrings inside of him!"

The Wise Fool

A BENEVOLENT old lady was paying a visit of inspection to a certain mental home which she had endowed.

In the gardens she came across a youthful-looking inmate fast asleep in a hammock.

"Why aren't you working with the rest, my boy?" asked the old lady tartly.

"I'm crazy," came the candid answer.

"But surely crazy people can work?" argued the other, pointing to some of the toilers.

"Maybe," replied the youthful-looking one, "but I ain't as crazy as that."

A Fitting Occupation

"THAT seems a nice little boy of yours, Martha," remarked the lady to her maid, who left her five years ago to get married. "What are you going to make of him when he grows up?"

Martha looked solemnly at the mistress she had not seen for more than five years.

"Well, ma'am," she replied after due consideration, "seein' as 'ow 'e's so fond of animals, we were thinkin' of makin' 'im a butcher."

To Your Friends in Other Cities

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Club life of San Francisco is something that has always interested commentators. Clubs are cherished in much the manner of New York's theaters, cafes and White Way razzle-dazzle. Every good citizen is an enthusiastic clubman and his sons and grandsons are on the waiting list.

The San Franciscan drops into his club at noon and in the evening and those with much leisure spend mornings there. Perhaps the best known is the Bohemian Club, which gives its yearly "highjinks" in the redwoods of Sonoma county. Big bugs in every walk of life come here to be boys again.

There is an annual play in a natural amphitheater, written and staged by its members famous in the arts. They sleep and eat in the open, sit about camp fires at night spinning yarns. Nobody is important and nobody better try to be or he may find a burr in the sitspot section of his pantaloons.

A cabinet member, a reigning novelist or a railroad magnet becomes Tom or Bill and he is likely to find his shirt dampened and tied into a knot when he slips it over his head in the morning. The spirit is "high-jinks"—a throw back to the Stonebruise Age.

The Bohemian Club has entertained every distinguished visitor of note. It was the high spot of Kipling's American tour. Another famous club is the Family with city quarters and a redwood grove where original music and drama are presented. These clubs are mellow with sentiment and rare goodfellowship.

In addition there are countless yacht and golf clubs and such. As a visiting fireman I was "clubbed" to exhaustion. The native invites you to his club the first thing. It is a "testing station" and if you come up to expectations you are invited to his home.

An energetic hospitality committee sees that every stranger receives club courtesies. Two hours after one arrives, his hotel mail box is stuffed with club invitations. As a clubman whose club life has been confined to membership in the Madison Avenue Pants Pressing Club it was all mighty elegant.

Beauty experts have classed San Francisco women among the most beautiful in the world. Fogs are reputed dandy for the complexion. The ladies have a distinct style—a colorful dash combining sport togs and furs. S. F. has also been considered by novelists as one of the three American "story" cities—the other two being New Orleans and New York.

San Francisco is for its size the greatest hotel city in the world. There are more than 2,000 considered worthy of patronage. As in Los Angeles, the inns offer none of the commercial coldness often found in the East. A patron is more than a number. Managers are not hiding behind a battery of uppity secretaries in private offices. They frequently stop at your door to extend a warm welcome and flowers. Their office doors are open. You are considered as a guest in a home.

In a block today I was hailed by three New York newsboys I used to know. Two were from Forty-second street and one from Seventy-second. Like many transplanted New Yorkers, they feign an indifference to New York, but I noticed they were quite eager to cup their ears for a little gossip from home.

There is no denying the sorcery of this city. It bristles with contradictions, speaks a medley of tongues, is thoroughly cosmopolitan, and yet is just a trifle "countrified." You feel that above the pallette of tones, there are folk who still enjoy eating off the oilcloth top of a kitchen table, sitting on the back porch in stockinged feet and gossiping over the back fence.

San Francisco has block after block of frame two and three-storied apartment houses with bay windows. Those of us who have corrugated our brows wondering what became of bay windows may learn the awful truth. This town has cornered the market and dramatized them. And for a place to lean out, nothing beats a bay window.

Earning

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Sometimes you can make money by cheating and you can get a reputation by lying and bluff, but as a rule when you want love or genuine respect you must earn it.

No one but a mother can love a person who is in no degree loveable or have confidence in a person who has no moral character.

The last people you can put anything over with are your wife and your children. Those who live every day with a person find out what sort of a man he is without listening to what he says. With them the saying of Emerson goes, "What you are thunders so loud that I cannot hear what you say."

When a man clears his throat and says to the assembled family:

"When I was 16 I thought my father didn't know anything; when I was 30 I thought he knew a little; now I know that he knew a great deal."

He has usually arrived at the age when he has skeptical 16-year-olds of his own.

He appreciates what his father was up against. He is being found out. So he has to carry on the bluff.

One of the wisest sentences in a wise book is Dorsey's line in "Why We Behave Like Human Beings:"

"The child does not love his parents because they are parents, but because they are lovable."

They have to EARN love. And they have to keep it in a constant state of repair. It isn't a divine right; it is something that has to be bought and paid for.

They also have to learn respect for their intelligence.

Bluffing the kids has been one of the big causes of mental stagnation in middle life.

If parents know they have to demonstrate and make good in the eyes of their children instead of bluffing them, they keep abreast of things.

In a little village bicycle shop in Italy a boy and his father did the same work. The father would repair a pedal and then the boy would do it after him. He was learning his father's trade.

A traveler noticing that the boy's pedal was less slipshod and better finished than the father's told him so.

"Oh, no, no, no, that was done by father," was the answer. The idea being that father could do no wrong.

A little of that spirit would probably be appreciated by the hard pressed American papa, but it leads to self-satisfaction and non-advance in an elder generation.

In the Old World and in older times "Honor thy Father and Mother" was interpreted to include accepting their mental abilities as approaching infallibility.

That idea seems wholly eradicated from the present younger generation.

However the elders may long for its return, it is probably true that the present attitude rather than the older will keep them on their toes trying to earn the respect they once obtained without a struggle.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By LEOLA ALLARD.

MEMBERS of the Board of Education in a Pennsylvania town, have ordered all school teachers to wear more clothes when appearing before their classes. A director said that the lack of clothing had a harmful effect upon the children.

Considering that the nudeness of their mothers and sisters cannot be curbed by the Board of Education, a muffled school teacher isn't going to do anything but make the kids laugh.

George Bernard Shaw says that the men attending the League of Nations at Geneva looked terribly bored, until a pretty little secretary in a new frock tripped through the room.

League of Nations or no league, there never was a man who, when "a pretty little secretary" tripped through the room, acted as if he was backing away from a bumble bee.

Did you hear about the girl child, eight, who asked her mother to buy her a baby sister? Mother said she would think it over.

"Where do you buy 'em?" asked the child.

"At the five and ten store," said the mother.

That afternoon the little girl took a nickel, found the "five and ten," and seeing a pretty child in a little cart in front of the store, she put the nickel on the counter inside, took the baby and went happily into the nearest park for the afternoon.

And the police said: "It is wrong to fib to them." That's what Dr. John B. Watson says. "Tell all. It won't hurt the children." Anyway they should be told that babies are worth more than ten cents.

High school girls in Albany, N. Y., are indignant because the principal of the Hackett Junior High School forbade them to roll their stockings down to their ankles. "Nothing indecent about it. Merely comfortable," say the girls.

Have a heart, girls, if it distracts the attention of the professor.

A Philadelphia preacher was jilted three times in four months by an ex-Follies girl who has already had three husbands. The fourth time he waited at the church, and when she didn't appear he told the preacher: "Maybe she missed the train. I'll wait till the next one."

A church is no place for a poor man to wait for a folly.

And yet—

(There is no fiction in this column. If it's here, it happened.)
